British Columbia Electric Railway Company, Limited

A GREAT ELECTRIC RAILWAY AND POWER SYSTEM

Electric Railway Tracks - - 366 miles
Power Plant Capacity - 130,000 horse power

Operating in Vancouver, Victoria, New Westminster, North Vancouver, Port Moody, Abbotsford, Chilliwack, Steveston and elsewhere.

We cordially invite manufacturers or others intending to locate in the territory served by us to consult us regarding transportation and power facilities.

Our power rates are acknowledged to compare favorably with the best obtainable anywhere, and our trackage facilities on our electric lines bring thousands of cheap sites on waterfrontage available for factories.

With abundant power for future needs and a record of 21 years of service in the province, the B. C. Electric is an institution as steady and reliable as the government of Canada.

Correspondence is solicited. Our engineers will gladly advise you on your power or manufacturing problems.

The object of the Association is to further the interests of manufacturers and industries in British Columbia in all respects, and the record of the Association stands as a proof of its utility.

The persistent efforts of the Association in the direction of securing better recognition of the products of local industries have been met with considerable success, and today it stands as an accepted rule with regard to government, municipal, and other public work of any kind, that British Columbia material shall be given preferential treatment, and the majority of tenders call for local material if obtainable.

The Association has been the means of securing a large amount of work for British Columbia manufacturers which would otherwise have been sent out of the province by private interests, and has spent large sums and effort in educating the public in general to give preference to the products of the industries of their own province. It is estimated that the Association has been the means of procuring for and retaining within the province contracts, government orders, etc., to the extent of twenty-five million dollars, and was instrumental in inaugurating the shipbuilding industry.

Active committees deal with matters of freight, tariff and kindred subjects of importance to industry, and all matters of individual or collective interest to manufacturers.

The executive expenses are small, the services of members acting on the executive being rendered gratis.

Every manufacturer in the province not claiming membership in this Association is acting detrimentally to his own interest and is a source of weakness to the other provincial industries. The Association therefore urges every provincial manufacturer to become a member, which will be to his benefit and assist the co-operative effort for the benefit of the province as a whole.

An Historical Review

As every important event, however remote, which has transpired on this coast since the discovery of the Pacific Ocean by Balboa has had an influence directly or indirectly on the country as it is today, the reader is referred back to Balboa himself, and with his discovery as a starting point, is carried on to the present time through a long list of voyages, discoveries, conquests, explorations, overland journeys, and the other more important events of a national or political character, including also a number of matters of individual and general interest as well.

In 1592 the Strait of Juan de Fuca, at the entrance to the Strait of Georgia, between Vancouver Island and the British Columbia mainland, was said to have been discovered by a navigator whose name it bears, but no authentic records are extant of visits to the coast of British Columbia prior to those of Bodega and Heceta in 1775 and of Captain Cook's third voyage in 1778.

The third voyage of Captain James Cook, undertaken in 1776, extended to the northwest coast in 1778. The well-known circumnavigator was commissioned by the British Government to examine the coast line from about 45 degrees north to the Arctic Ocean for alleged large inland openings to the eastward. Through prevailing bad weather in March, 1778, he passed, unnoticed, the Strait of Juan de Fuca, and proceeding northward, discovered and named Nootka Sound, Prince William's Sound and Cook's Inlet.

One of the events determining the political fate of the northwest coast arose out of the traffic in furs, following the voyage of Captain Cook.

To the North West Company and its successor, the Hudson's Bay Company, belongs the credit for the final establishment of British supremacy throughout the northern Pacific coasts.

Sir Alexander Mackenzie, after whom the Mackenzie River was named, was the first white man or citizen of any country to traverse the northern continent from ocean to ocean, which he did almost wholly on foot. He reached the Pacific in the vicinity of Bella Coola on July 20, 1793. He was followed, south of the line, by Lewis and Clark, who, in 1805, keeping to the Missouri River, and after crossing the Rocky Mountains to the Columbia River, reached the mouth of the latter. The ill-fated Astor expedition came on the heels of Lewis and Clark, in 1811.

Several fearful tragedies in which the Indians were concerned are recorded to have taken place on this coast when the fur trade was at the height of prosperity. One was the destruction in 1803 of the American ship Boston by the natives of Nootka Sound, all the crew being murdered with the exception of the armourer, Jewitt, and the sailmaker, Thompson, who were kept in slavery four years by the Chief Maquinna of Vancouver and Quadra's day. In 1805 the American ship Atahualpa, of Rhode Island, was attacked by the savages of Millbank Sound, and her captain, mate and six seamen were killed, after which the other seamen succeeded in repelling the assailants and saving the vessel. In the same manner the Tonquin, of Boston, was, in June, 1811, attacked by the natives whilst at anchor in Clayoquot Sound, and with one exception the whole of the crew murdered.

The period between 1795, after the abandonment of Nootka, and 1818, is marked only by the arrival of numerous trading vessels, principally British and American, but including those of other nations as well. Subsequent to 1818, the history of the coast to 1846 is practically the history of the North West and Hudson's Bay Companies, and so far as the territory on the coast of what is British Columbia is concerned, that period may be extended to 1858. During the long interval of fifty years the principal voyages were in ships trading on behalf of the latter corporation.

The long-drawn-out period of diplomacy respecting the territorial limits of Great Britain, Russia and the United States, included the limits of Russian America (now known as Alaska), settled by the Anglo-Russian convention of 1825, with its further developments of the Behring Sea and Alaska boundary disputes, eventually settled by arbitration; and the Oregon boundary question, out of which the San Juan difficulty grew—the first of which was settled by treaty in 1846, and the second by the arbitrament of the Emperor of Germany in 1872.

In the early history of the northwest coast the three important factors were: First, the search for the northwest passage, the practical solution of which was finally evolved by the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway; second, the fur-trading period, from the date of the royal charter to the Hudson's Bay Company, in 1670, to that of the abrogation of the same in British Columbia in 1859, and the purchase of Rupert's Land by the Imperial Government in 1869; third, the claims to territory advanced by the three great powers mentioned and the diplomatic negotiations arising therefrom.

There is, in addition, the story of the founding of the colonies of Vancouver Island and British Columbia, after the gold-seekers had intruded upon the ancient preserves of the fur-hunters and had almost in a day swept away the sovereignty of the Hudson's Bay Company.

Under new organization, in 1821, and for purposes of trade and control, the Hudson's Bay Company divided the fur-bearing country into three great departments presided over by chief factors, namely: The Northern, Southern, and Western, and the Minor Department of Montreal, which included trading-posts in Canada on the borders of the settlements and down the coast of Labrador. The depot for the Western Department, which included all the territory between the watershed of the Rocky Mountains and the Pacific Ocean and the Russian territory on the north and Mexico on the south, was established in the first place at Vancouver, on the Columbia River, and afterwards removed to Victoria. The trading-posts on the coast of British Columbia were strongly fortified, and large farms, gristmills, sawmills, tanneries, fisheries, etc., were established for cattle-raising and business in several parts of the country. In 1863 the sale of the Hudson's Bay Company's stock and assets to the International Financial Society brought the days of their power practically to a close. History will accord to the Hudson's Bay Company its due meed of approbation for its wise and beneficent dealings with the Indians, thereby preparing them for the peaceful advent of white settlers; and equally so for its methods of training to labour and utility which now constitutes the Indian a factor in the labour market of British Columbia.

It was during this period of Hudson's Bay Company rule that two important events in the commercial and industrial development of the Pacific Coast are to be noted. One was the arrival of the Beaver, the first steamship to enter the western ocean, in 1835. The other was the discovery of coal in the vicinity of Fort Rupert, where it was first prospected for by the Hudson's Bay Company. Boyd Gilmour and his nephew, Robert Dunsmuir, later Hon. Robert Dunsmuir and the founder of the Dunsmuir millions, came there from Scotland under contract as coal-mining experts for the purpose, in 1851. The coal seams in that locality not being found to be sufficiently thick to warrant exploitation, the plant and scene of operations were shifted to Nanaimo, which became the nucleus of an industry on Vancouver Island since developed to very important proportions, for the first few years under the ægis of the Hudson's Bay Company, and, after 1862, under the control of the Vancouver Coal Company and its successors, and Robert Dunsmuir and his sons and their successors.

Prior to the conclusion of the Oregon treaty on June 15, 1846, which fixed the boundary line between the United States and Great Britain at the 49th parallel, the Hudson's Bay Company, anticipating the result under which Fort Vancouver, their chief Pacific depot and distributing centre, established since 1824, became American territory, decided to remove their headquarters to within British limits. Victoria, at the southernmost end of Vancouver Island, was selected at the instance of Senior Chief Factor James Douglas.

The site of the present city of Victoria was known as Camosun, being the Indian name of the locality, the significance of which, however, is not known. It was chosen originally not with the view of becoming a city, but as a spot favourable for the erection of a fort, which was built in 1843. It was at first known as Fort Camosun, but was shortly changed to Fort Victoria in honour of the Queen.

On January 13, 1849, a charter was granted to the Hudson's Bay Company.

In 1849 Vancouver Island was proclaimed a British colony, ostensible inducements to settlement being extended to emigrants from Europe and elsewhere. In the same year Mr. Richard Blanshard was appointed and proclaimed the first Governor of the new colony, but his term of office was short and unsatisfactory, and in November, 1851, he returned to England, leaving the authority in the hands of a Provisional Council.

Before the close of the year, Mr. James Douglas, chief factor of the Hudson's Bay Company, was appointed Governor, and at the instance of the home government, called together in 1856 a representative assembly by whom the affairs of the colony were successfully administered.

During the early days of colonial government on Vancouver Island, the mainland, known in a vague way as New Caledonia, still remained Indian territory under the control of the Hudson's Bay Company. On August 20, 1858, by Imperial edict, it was named British Columbia, with boundaries as at present established. By order of the Queen-in-Council, dated September 2, 1858, Mr. James Douglas was made Governor and empowered to make provision for its due administration. On Nov. 3, 1858, proclamation was made revoking the Crown grant of May 3, 1838, to the Hudson's Bay Company for exclusive trading with the Indians in New Caledonia. On November 19, 1858, the legislative birthday of British Columbia was enacted with the swearing in of officials under the auspices of Governor Douglas and Chief Justice Matthew Baillie Begbie, the scene of the ceremony being Fort Langley, the presumptive capital of the new colony.

Until 1864, Governor Douglas, assisted by certain officials sent from Great Britain, including Lieut.-Col. Moody, commander of the forces, and chief commissioner of lands and works—with latent powers as lieutenant-governor—Matthew Baillie Begbie, as chief justice; Hon. Wymond Hamley, collector of customs, and other heads, administered the affairs of the new colony. In 1864, in response to demands from the people for some form of representative government—not favoured by Douglas—a legislative council was brought into existence, which had three sessions at New Westminster before union was accomplished.

Along with the chief officials from England came the Royal Engineers, a corps of 400 strong, whose headquarters were at Sapperton and whose mission was to assist in the protection and development of the new colony. The Royal Engineers did excellent work in building roads and bridges and in surveying and making other public improvements. Among other important undertakings the Cariboo wagon road was begun by them from Yale, and in a large measure constructed by them or under their supervision.

Touching the selection of a site for the capital of the mainland, Langley was at first chosen, and town lots were sold by auction; but this was abandoned in favour of the present site of New Westminster. There was a dispute in official circles as to the name by which the latter was to be called. "But so great already was the jealousy of Victoria against the projected new city," says Sir Henry Crease, "that Queenborough was considered by the Colonial Secretary, Mr. W. A. G. Young, as too nearly a paraphrase of Victoria, the only permissible queen city, and after a great inkshed and a long, acrid correspondence, the name was proclaimed to be not the Queen borough (Victoria), but Queensborough, which was quite another thing. The dispute did not stop there, and finally it was referred to Her Majesty, and 'Queensborough' was converted into a Royal City of British Columbia, under the name of New Westminster, and on the faith of that many invested their all in it." Lots were sold at high prices by auction, on the understanding, so it is stated, that all the money from the proceeds of sale should be applied to opening up the streets and clearing the lots of timber "as large and as dense as the world could possibly produce," but the understanding was ignored and the purchasers were obliged to tax themselves to do the work for lack of the money which the government applied to other purposes.

The next logical step in the progress of the two colonies was their union. At first, it was strongly favoured by Victoria and Vancouver Island and opposed by New Westminster and the lower mainland. Vancouver Island was comparatively small in area and circumscribed in opportunity. Victoria, being by far the more populous, wealthy and influential of the two cities, would naturally be the controlling factor of the united colonies, and the addition of the mainland would increase its commercial and political prestige. On the other hand, sectional feeling and local jealousy of Victoria and the Island of Vancouver developed a spirit of opposition in New Westminster and district. Besides, when the issue had reached its most feverish stage, in 1865, the mainland colony was the most prosperous. At the bottom of it all, however, was the question of which should be the capital city. New Westminster was afraid of the overpowering influence of Victoria, and Victoria was very hopeful and confident of its own chances on that score. There were two very important factors favourable to union, which finally prevailed. The expenses of civil government in both colonies were very high, and union meant a great saving in that respect. Governor Douglas from the outset strongly supported union and his views were shared by the Imperial Government, whose influence was all but paramount. The upper country had little interest in the subject, and favoured, if anything, Victoria as a choice between two capitals. On the lower mainland it came to be felt at last that the uncertainty was interfering seriously with progress. In 1866 a petition in favour of union was signed by 450 persons. In the writer's "Life of Sir James Douglas" the following appears:

"In the end the British Government decided the question, and the authority of the executive government and council of British Columbia was extended over Vancouver Island, the number of members of the council being increased to twenty-three. The customs regulations of the mainland colony were likewise extended to the island. Other ordinances remained for a time as before. The original authority of the Governor to make regulations for peace, order and good government was not restricted. The act bore date of August 6, 1866. A short time after, the attorney-general of Vancouver Island introduced a bill for assimilating its laws with those of British Columbia. There then remained only the question of the seat of government—a rock which the act of union had discreetly avoided. Amid the violent altercations of partisans, the choice fell on Victoria, and though the bitterness of the defeat rankled long on the mainland, no effort subsequently availed to secure a reversion of the decision."

Events moved rapidly thereafter. Union in British Columbia was brought about contemporaneously with the movement in Eastern Canada towards Confederation, the central idea of which was the consolidation of the whole of British North America under one central government of Canada. No sooner, therefore, had union been accomplished locally than an agitation started in favour of Confederation, and it was an issue which, generally speaking, excited more interest than the lesser one already decided. Although sentiment in Vancouver Island, on the whole, was unfavourable to Confederation, the entire mainland, including Cariboo, then an important factor, was practically a unit in its favour. Old-time elements, represented by Sir James Douglas and Dr. J. S. Helmcken, the latter of whom was still an important public figure and widely influential, were in opposition, to some extent as a matter of sentiment easily understood; but in the case of Dr. Helmcken opposition was founded on something more substantial. He did not think the time ripe, and argued that by waiting until the system had worked out satisfactorily in Eastern Canada, British Columbia would receive more consideration and could demand better terms than by applying for admission at the outset; and it must be admitted that subsequent events proved that there was much wisdom in his contention.

To go back a bit in the narrative, in order to make it complete, James Douglas retired as Governor of Vancouver Island in September, 1863, and was succeeded by Arthur Kennedy, who took up the duties of office in March, 1864. He continued as Governor of Vancouver Island for a time, and in 1864 was succeeded by Frederick Seymour, formerly Governor of Honduras. Seymour strongly opposed the union of the colonies at first, but finally acquiesced. Upon the union of the two colonies, he became Governor of British Columbia, and was as strongly opposed to Confederation as he had been to union. James Douglas was knighted as a recognition of his eminent services, an honour that was richly merited, and upon his retirement took the opportunity he had long craved for, of visiting England and his old home in Scotland and of taking an extended trip on the continent of Europe. Upon his return to Victoria he sought the seclusion of private life and no longer took a part in public affairs.

To quote again from the pages of the "Life of Sir James Douglas (Morang's Series of the "Makers of Canada"): "On December 17, 1867, the legislature of British Columbia assembled for the first time at Victoria. The influence of Seymour, who had succeeded to the governorship of the united colonies, had hitherto retained for New Westminster this coveted distinction. Having yielded in one matter, the Governor and the opinion which he represented saw fit to bow to the majority in another and more important. No sooner had the confederation of the eastern colonies become an accomplished fact, than the admission of British Columbia to the Dominion of Canada was keenly debated. The Governor opposed it. A small party which favoured annexation with the United States opposed it. The body of office-holders opposed it vigorously. At the first, the activity of these succeeded in shelving the question. Nevertheless, as early as March, 1868, a resolution passed the council in favour of the union, provided fair and equitable terms could be obtained. Public meetings at Victoria, Barkerville and other points, soon after, gave solid endorsation to the project. The sympathy of the Dominion itself was obtained, with special reference to the taking over of the intervening territory. A confederation league was formed and a convention held under its auspices at Yale. Here, perhaps for the first time, the movement found its full voice, the existing form of government being denounced as a despotism for which the only remedy was asserted to be the immediate admission of British Columbia into the Dominion and the establishment of responsible institutions."

(Just here, it may be stated parenthetically that the sentiments at the Yale convention represented rather the lucubrations of extreme politicians than the solid views of the people of the province. There were no very substantial grievances against the government, in the same sense as confederation came about in old Canada as a result of an impossible system in which Upper and Lower Canada were tied together in an unnatural and conflicting alliance and continuously locked horns. The real thing which made confederation popular in British Columbia and carried the day for it was the hope afforded of ending a hopeless isolation by railway communication with the Atlantic seaboard. There was very little of sentiment mixed up in the agitation and certainly relief from misgovernment or a bad system of government, though a contributing factor, was not of itself sufficient to have decided the people in favour of a change.—R. E. G.)

"But the most potent of all the arguments for union was the promise which it held out of promoting overland communication with Canada. This it was that finally silenced the opposition of Seymour. In any event, the death of the Governor in 1869 led to the appointment of an avowed advocate of confederation, Anthony Musgrave, previously Governor of Newfoundland, and with an experience of administration gained in the West Indies. A tour of the colony which the new officer immediately undertook confirmed the view that the overwhelming sentiment of the population was in favour of confederation. On the back of this came formal instructions from England that the Governor should take steps, as he properly and constitutionally could, either in conjunction with the Governor-General of Canada or otherwise, to promote the favourable consideration of the question. When the council, which had been reconstituted in 1869, met for the session of 1870, Musgrave had a series of resolutions prepared for its consideration. In a memorable debate which began on March 9, 1870, and lasted until the 25th, the terms on which British Columbia should become a part of the Dominion were definitely determined. On July 7 the news was received from Ottawa that the articles had been agreed upon, the construction of the transcontinental railway guaranteed, and the delegates, who had been sent to present the claims of the province, already on their way home.

"The provisions upon which British Columbia entered confederation ensured in the first place that the Dominion should assume all debts and liabilities of the colony, allowance being made for the small amount of these compared with the original indebtedness of the other provinces. For the support of the provincial government an annual subsidy of thirty-five thousand dollars, with an additional grant of eighty cents per head on an estimated population of sixty thousand, was promised, the latter allowance to be increased pro rata until the population reached four hundred thousand. Canada was to defray all charges in respect to the salaries of the Lieutenant-Governor and of the judges of the superior and county or district courts—likewise of department of customs, the postal and telegraph services, the fisheries, the militia, the geological survey, the penitentiary, the marine department, the care of the Indians, and other matters pertaining to the general government. A fortnightly steam mail service between Victoria and San Francisco, and a weekly service with Olympia, were to be maintained by the Dominion. But the portion of the agreement which was of most absorbing interest to British Columbia was that which set forth in detail the terms on which the railway across the continent, now the dream of every section of the community, should be built, and which provided, in brief, that it should unite the seaboard of British Columbia with the railway system of Canada, and that its construction should be begun within two years of the date of union, the province conveying the necessary public lands along the line in trust to the Dominion Government. The Dominion also guaranteed the interest for ten years on a maximum sum of £100,000 to be expended on the construction of a graving dock at Esquimalt. The new province was given three seats in the Senate and six in the House of Commons. Finally, it was agreed that the constitution of the executive authority and of the legislature of British Columbia should continue until altered under the British North America Act, it being understood that the Dominion Government would consent to the introduction of responsible government when desired by the people of British Columbia, and that it was the intention of the British Columbia Government to amend the existing constitution of the legislature by providing that a majority of its members should be elective. The union was to take place on a date to be fixed by Her Majesty on addresses from the legislature of British Columbia and of the parliament of Canada, the former being granted leave to specify in its address the electoral districts for which the first election of members to serve in the House of Commons should take place.

"The document containing the terms of union reached Victoria on July 18, 1870. Meantime a representative had been despatched to England to secure the needed change in the constitution of the colony and the guarantee of the Imperial Government for the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway. For the election of the new council, which for the first time in the history of the united colonies was preponderatingly representative in character, the colony was divided into eight electoral districts, consisting of Victoria city, Victoria district, Nanaimo, New Westminster, Hope, Yale and Lytton, Lillooet and Clinton, and Cariboo and Kootenay. Of these, Victoria city returned two members. The election was held in November, and the council met in January, 1871. The chief work of the session was, of course, the ratification of the terms of union previously agreed upon. This done, an act was passed abolishing the council and establishing a legislative assembly in its stead, the latter to be elected once in every four years and to consist of twenty-four members chosen by twelve electoral districts. Thus it was effected that responsible government should come into operation at the first session of the legislature subsequent to the union with Canada. A qualification and franchise act was passed and the council prorogued on March 28th. On the same date, the resolutions for the admission of the colony were moved in the Canadian House of Commons, and, after a four days' discussion, were adopted. On July 1, 1871, the first Dominion Day was celebrated in British Columbia."

DATES IN OUR HISTORY

The following list oı dates refer to important events which have had an influence in the development on the Pacific side of the continent and directly and indirectly upon affairs within the more narrow confines of British Columbia:

1776—Cook sails from England upon his third voyage round the world.

1778—Trading posts established on Athabasca or Elk River by Messrs. Frobisher and Pond.

1778—Captain Cook fails to find Strait of Juan de Fuca, but lands at Friendly Cove, Nootka Island, and explores the coast into Alaskan waters.

1779—Captain Cook murdered at the Hawaiian Islands by natives.

1783—Chelikof explores coasts between southwest extremity of Alaska and Prince William Sound.

1783-1784—North West (fur-trading) Company of Montreal established.

1787—Captain Barkley rediscovers the Strait of Juan de Fuca and names it.

1788—Captain Meares launches the North West Coast, the first vessel to be built in these waters.

1789—Russians establish ports on Cook's River.

1789—Captain Metcalf, American trader, with the brig Eleonora and schooner Fair American, reaches Nootka Sound.

1789—Spaniards seize the British vessels at Nootka Sound (17th February), the occasion of the "Nootka affair."

1790—Quimper, in the sloop Princess Royal, explores the Strait of Juan de Fuca. Fidalgo and Elisa also on the coast.

1790—Nootka treaty, October 28.

1791—Captain Ingraham trades with natives on the northwest coast.

1791—Captain Gray arrives at Clayoquot.

1791—Captain George Vancouver appointed British commissioner to settle the claims arising out of the "Nootka affair."

1792—Captain Gray enters and names the Columbia River.

1792—Haswell in the Adventure (built by Americans at Nootka Sound) sails for Queen Charlotte Island.

1792—Captain Vancouver circumnavigated Vancouver Island. To him belongs the honour of being the first European to navigate the intricate channels dividing the island from the mainland.

1793—Sir Alexander Mackenzie journeys overland to Pacific coast and reaches point on the ocean near Bella Coola.

1796—The X. Y. Fur Company, a rival to the North West Company, founded.

1799—Russian American (fur) Company formed.

1802—Massacre at Sitka of Russians by Indians.

1803—Massacre of the crew of ship Boston at Nootka Sound by natives.

1805—North West Company cross Rocky Mountains and establish Fort McLeod on McLeod Lake.

1807—David Thompson reaches the Columbia River overland.

1808—Simon Fraser reaches Pacific (via Fraser River). He discovers and names the Thompson River.

1811—David Thompson reaches Pacific (Columbia River).

1825—British treaty with Russia fixing the boundary line of Russian America, now Alaska.

1824-1825—Fort Vancouver founded.

1838—Hudson's Bay Company gets exclusive privilege trade (May 30) throughout the Indian territory.

1839—Alaska leased to Hudson's Bay Company.

1842—Victoria selected as Hudson's Bay Company's fort.

1843—Fort Victoria erected.

1849—Vancouver Island formally elected into a colony. Richard Blanshard appointed governor.

50—Coal discovered at Nanaimo.

1[illegible]—Gold found on Queen Charlotte Islands.

185[illegible] First council Vancouver Island.

1852—Fort Nanaimo founded.

1852—Victoria city surveyed.

1855—First school Vancouver Island established.

1856—First elections, Vancouver Island (August 4).

1856—First legislative assembly Vancouver Island (August 12). Hon. J. S. Helmcken, Speaker.

1856-1857—Discovery of gold in British Columbia.

1858—First rush of gold miners and settlement of country.

1858—First miners arrive in Victoria (April 25).

1858—First sale British Columbia lands.

1858—British Columbia made Crown colony.

1858—British Columbia boundaries defined.

1859—Old government buildings begun at Victoria.

1859—Westminster selected capital of British Columbia (January 28).

1859—New Westminster founded.

1859—New Westminster named (May 5).

1859—First sale New Westminster lots (June 1).

1862—Victoria incorporated.

1862—Cariboo wagon road begun.

1864—First session legislative council New Westminster (January 21).

1864—First issue Cariboo Sentinel (June 6).

1866—Union of Vancouver Island and British Columbia (November 17).

1867—Confederation of Canada (July 1).

1868—First British Columbia parliament in Victoria.

1870—British Columbia decides to enter Confederation.

AFTER CONFEDERATION

C. P. R. survey commenced, 1871.

Legislative council passed the terms of union with Canada, January 19, 1871.

The first Dominion Day, July 1, 1871.

Direct telegraphic communication with Cariboo established, July 15, 1871.

First sale of Port Moody lots, at New Westminster, February 2, 1883.

A company formed to work a copper lode at Sooke, "traced for twenty miles," July 1, 1883.

First rail laid at Port Moody, July 20, 1883.

The Hon. Robert Dunsmuir reported to have secured the contract for E. & N. railway, August 9, 1883.

First cable message across the straits, October 21, 1884.

Larkin & Connolly's tender for the dry dock at Esquimalt accepted, November 12, 1884.

Arrival of first locomotive for E. & N. railway, August 12, 1885.

First railway engine crossed the Columbia River at Farwell (Revelstoke), October 17, 1885.

C. P. R. telegraph connected with Winnipeg, November 4, 1885.

First train over the C. P. R. from the east, and last spike driven by Sir Donald Smith, 11 p.m., November 6, 1885.

Vancouver city started, 1886.

Total destruction of Vancouver city by fire, June 13, 1886.

First through train over the E. & N. railway; Sir John A. Macdonald drives the last spike near Shawnigan Lake, Friday, August 13, 1886.

First press telegrams received over the C. P. R. telegraph line published in Victoria Colonist, December 5, 1886.

Opening of the Esquimalt graving dock, H.M.S. Cormorant first to enter, July 20, 1887.

Vancouver illuminated with gas, November 26, 1887.

First consignment of Chilliwack fruit sent to Winnipeg, August 25, 1888.

Nelson started, 1889.

First banquet of the Board of Trade, Vancouver, at the Hotel Vancouver, March 5, 1889.

Ice first manufactured at Victoria, August 8, 1889.

New Westminster lighted with electricity for the first time, December 9, 1889.

Revelstoke laid out, 1890.

Inauguration of the tramway in Victoria, February 19, 1890.

Opening of Vancouver electric tramway, June 26, 1890.

Opening ceremonies of the New Westminster Southern Railway at Blaine, Washington, February 14, 1891.

Kaslo laid out, 1892.

Inauguration of regular tramway service between Vancouver and New Westminster, October 28, 1892.

First Assizes held in Vancouver, Judge McCreight presiding, November, 1892.

First Australian steamer, 1893.

First C. P. R. steamer China, 1893.

Edward Holmes completed walk from Montreal to Vancouver, 2,926 miles, in 2,700 hours; August 26, 1893.

Opening of Victoria & Sidney Railway, June 2, 1894.

Rossland named, 1895.

Trail smelter commenced operations, February 1, 1896.

Survey of Crow's Nest Pass Railway begun, January 10, 1897.

West Kootenay Power & Light Co. started operations at Nelson, July 7, 1897.

Coke ovens at Union in successful operation, July 9, 1897.

Klondike excitement at its height, July 20, 1897.

Long distance telephone between Nelson and Rossland in operation, September 25, 1897.

Opening of new Parliament Buildings at Victoria, February 10, 1898.

Excitement over the discovery of gold in Atlin district, August 13, 1898.

Commencement of Nelson & Bedlington Railway, November 26, 1898.

Decision to locate smelter at Grand Forks announced, May 16, 1899.

Hon. R. McBride's (Conservative) administration sworn in, June 4, 1904.

Coquitlam power tunnel opened, June 11, 1905.

1917 PRODUCTION OF VARIOUS MINERALS BRIEFLY REVIEWED

In order to indicate in a general way the sources of the various minerals mined in the province and to give an idea of some of the conditions that affect their production, and, incidentally, brief information concerning the larger known mineral deposits occurring in British Columbia, the next following comments are submitted.

Gold

Placer Gold.—The recovery of placer gold for 1917 is valued at $496,000, of which practically all is obtained in the Cariboo and Cassiar Districts, only about one-tenth of the total coming from the other districts. An approximate apportionment is as follows: From Cariboo District, $170,000; Atlin Division of Cassiar District, $320,000; Stikine and Liard, $15,000; remaining parts of the province, $45,000. The production for 1917 shows a decrease from the preceding year of $84,500.

In hydraulic placer mining, from which about 90 per cent. of the placer gold obtained in British Columbia is derived, it has been pretty well demonstrated that the gold output is in direct proportion to the number of days in which water was available for piping.

In the Atlin Division water conditions were normal, so far as is known, but the shortage of labour handicapped operations. So many men have left the district for active service in the war that not only were the larger companies short of labour, but also the number of individuals mining in a small way was much lower than formerly.

In the Cariboo District water conditions were good in the early part of the season owing to the heavy snowfall of the previous winter, which melted off gradually. This was followed by a dry summer, with some compensation by reason of heavy fall rains.

Gold mining in all forms has suffered by the war, due to the fact that the cost of labour and supplies has materially increased, while the price of the product remains standard; hence operating costs are higher and profits lower.

Due to the greatly enhanced market price of the base metals, mines which operate on a sliding scale of wages, regulated by the prices of metals, have been paying abnormally high wages, thus attracting miners away from gold mining, both placer and lode.

Standard Mine, Silverton

In addition to the increased cost of all supplies, war conditions have also rendered it almost impossible to obtain new equipment at any price. There has therefore been no inducement for capital to enter into new placer-mining enterprises, either hydraulic or dredging. The development of new placer enterprises in the Cariboo and Atlin fields and elsewhere in the province can hardly be expected until the world war is over.

Lode Gold.—The quantity of lode gold produced in 1917 was very considerably less than in the previous year. The output, worth $2,367,190, as compared with $4,587,334 in 1916, is the lowest in the record of production since 1898. The explanation of this very serious drop in output is the large decrease in the lode gold produced in Rossland camp, the mines of which usually produce over 50 per cent. of the total gold production of the province. In 1917 the Rossland mines only made one-quarter of their usual production owing to the numerous industrial troubles which forced the total suspension of ore shipments for five months, and reduced below normal the output during the remainder of the year.

There was also a considerable decrease in 1917 in the production from the Boundary-Yale District, due to a smaller tonnage of copper ore, carrying low gold values, being treated by the Grand Forks smelter of the Granby Company. The Crow's Nest coal strike also adversely affected this company's operations by shutting off the supply of coke.

Nelson Division also made a much smaller output than in the previous year owing to no production having been made from the Sheep Creek camp.

An increase was made in the Skeena District, which is accounted for by the initial production from the Surf Inlet mine of Belmont Canadian Mines, Limited, and the increased tonnage of ore, carrying low gold values, treated at the Anyox smelter of the Granby Consolidated Company.

The Nickel Plate mine, in the Osoyoos Division, made approximately the same production as in the previous year, viz., 36,000 oz. of gold.

The Yankee Girl mine, near Ymir, recommenced shipments to the Greenwood smelter after not shipping for a period of nearly three years, during which time low-level development was carried on.

The Lillooet production comes from the Bridge River section and almost entirely from the Pioneer and Lorne mines.

The first production from the Surf Inlet mine since its acquisition by the present owning company is interesting and important, a considerable output being expected, the result of four months' operations. The property is equipped with a 250-ton mill which commenced milling in August; a considerable gold production in the future from this property seems assured.

Silver

The total amount of silver produced in the province during the year 1917 was 2,929,216 oz., valued at $2,265,749, a decrease in amount, as compared with the previous year, of 372,707 oz.; but, owing to the increase in the market value of this metal, the value of the silver output in 1917 was $206,010 greater than in 1916.

Unlike the other metals, silver declined in price at first owing to the effect of the war on the market. The decline in the price of silver, followed by a sudden rise in value, is best seen by comparing the average yearly prices for the last four years, which were:

1913	59.8	cents an oz.
1914	54.8	"
1915	49.7	"
1916	65.7	"
1917	81.4	"

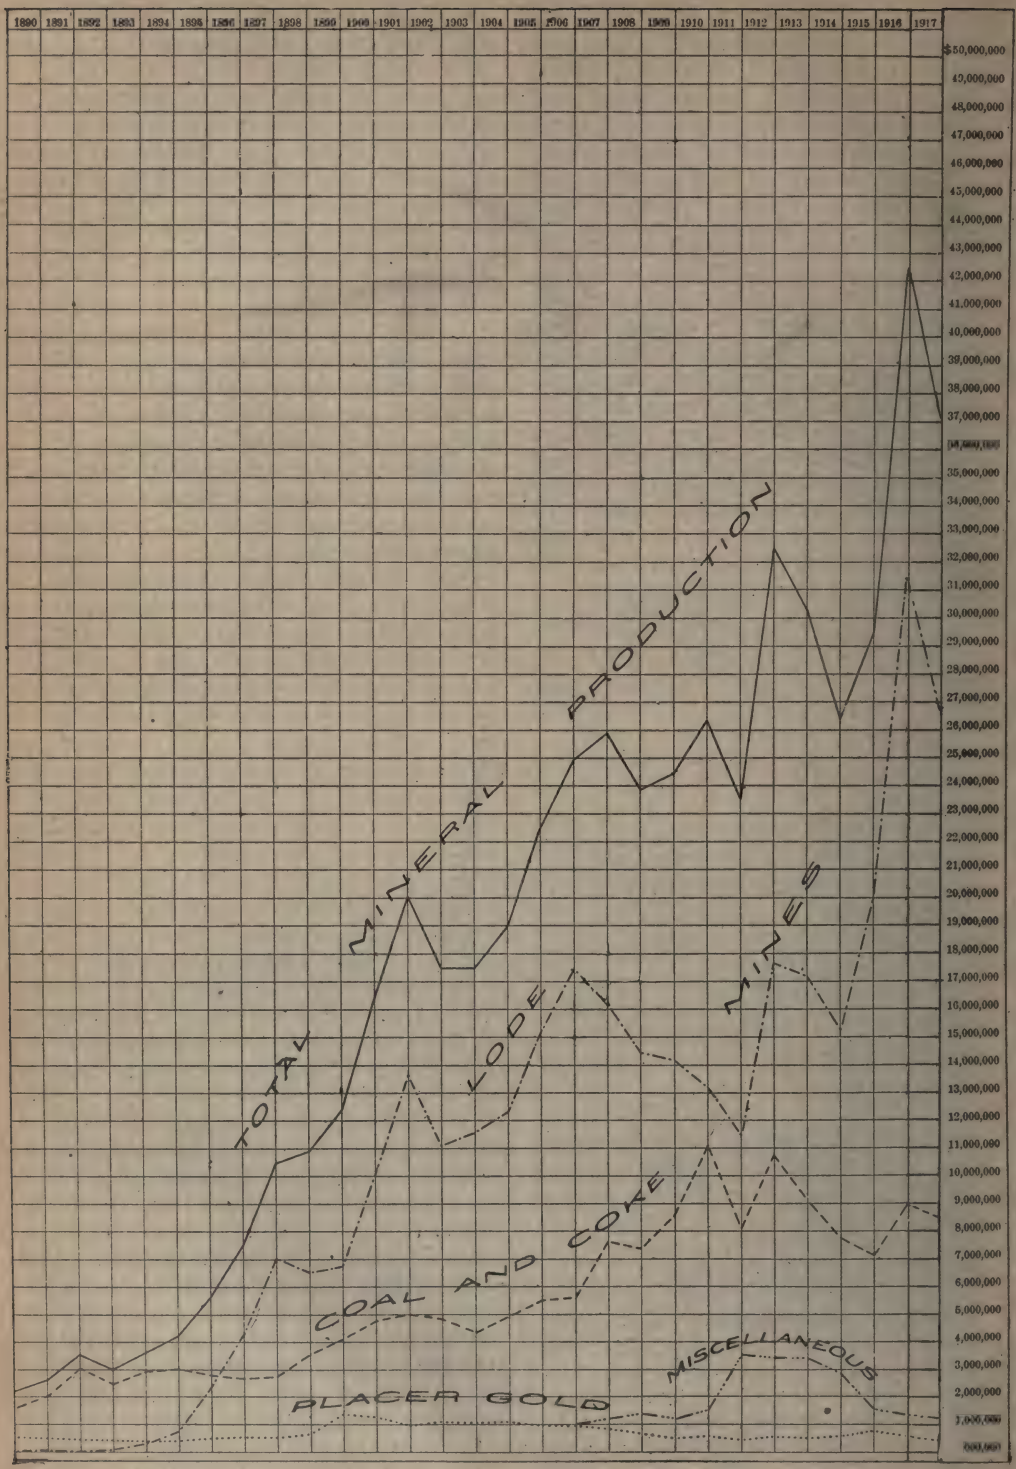
The Slocan District is again far in the lead of all other districts in silver production, 53 per cent. of the total being credited to the Slocan, and the output would have been still larger but for the curtailment of ore shipments at different times throughout the year, caused by the inability of the Trail smelter to handle the ore.

The largest producer in the Slocan was again the Standard, followed by the Queen Bess and Surprise. The total number of shipping mines in the district was about thirty-five.

Ainsworth and Fort Steele Divisions both show decreases as compared with the previous year.

About 50 per cent. of the silver output from the Boundary District comes from the Granby Company's mines at Phoenix. Other mines contributing are the Mother Lode, Sally and Union.

The silver production from Trail Creek comes from the smelting of the gold-copper



SCALE SHOWING MINERAL PRODUCT ION OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

Bunkers, Granite Quarries—North Arm, Burrard Inlet

ores of Rossland camp, which carry about ½ oz. of silver to the ton.

The Skeena production comes almost entirely from the Granby Company's Hidden Creek mine, at Anyox. The Omineca production was about the same as in 1916.

The Coast production of silver comes from the smelting of copper ores carrying low values in the precious metals. As a larger tonnage of copper ore was smelted, the silver output shows an increase.

About 75 per cent. of the total provincial output of silver comes from the treatment of silver-lead-zinc ores and the balance mainly from the smelting of gold-copper ores carrying silver.

Lead

The lead production of the province for the year 1917 was 37,307,465 lb., having a market value of $2,951,020, showing, as compared with the previous year, a decrease in amount of 11,420,051 lb.; but owing to the increase in the market value of this metal, the value of the lead output in 1917 was only $56,442 less than in 1916.

This amount of lead represents the amount of metallic lead actually received and paid for by the smelters.

Instead of taking account of "loss in slags," the customary practice of the smelters of deducting 10 per cent. from the market price of the metal, in calculating the value, has been followed.

The average market price of this metal for the year 1917 was considerably higher than for the previous year, being 8.787 cents a pound, as compared with 6.858 cents.

The lead production was, as usual, derived chiefly from the Slocan and Fort Steele Mining Divisions.

Copper

The amount of copper produced by smelting in the province in 1917 was 59,007,565 lb. fine copper, valued at the average New York market price for copper at $16,038,256. These figures represent the amount of copper actually recovered, as nearly as it is possible to ascertain; the amount of copper really in the ores mined would be approximately 25 per cent. greater.

As compared with the year 1916 the copper output was 6,371,799 lb. less, due to the shutting down of the smelters at various times owing to coke shortage—the result of industrial troubles in the Crow's Nest coal field. The 1917 output is, however, greater than in any previous year excepting 1916. The Hidden Creek mines and the smelter at Anyox of the Granby Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company were operated continuously throughout the year, even although at times some difficulty was experienced from shortage of coke and labour. A larger tonnage was treated than in 1916, amounting to approximately 784,000 tons of ore, and in addition 38,000 tons of quartz flux and 53,000 tons of limestone flux. With the increased tonnage handled there was a corresponding increase in the output of copper, approximately 27,661,301 lb. being produced, as compared with 23,890,896 lb. in 1916.

In the Boundary District the Granby Company's mines at Phoenix and smelter at Grand Forks were not operated continuously nor to full capacity throughout the year owing to the strike in the Crow's Nest coal field shutting off the supply of coke. Only a little over half the 1916 tonnage was handled, and as the grade of ore remained practically the same, the copper output shows a proportionate decrease. Similarly, the British Columbia Copper Company (now absorbed by the Canada Copper Corporation) treated a smaller tonnage during the past year than in 1916, with consequent decrease in copper output.

The Britannia mine had a very successful year, the tonnage of ore mined and milled being about 662,000 tons. The ore reserves at this mine are large—claimed to be about 17,000,000 tons—and it is expected the yearly tonnage treated will increase still further, as the ultimate plans of the company are to have milling capacity to handle 4,000 tons a day.

Several small shipments of copper ore were made from Vancouver Island and along the coast. The high price of copper has stimulated the work of developing copper showings on the coast, and while this did not result in any great quantity of ore being shipped in 1917, it is likely that a considerable increase of production will take place in 1918.

The encouraging feature as regards copper in the Southern Coast District is the very satisfactory results being obtained from serious development, which as yet has not found expression in actual production, but augurs well for substantial output in the near future. Development, to be successful, would seem to be so extensive as to be out of reach of any but strong companies.

During the last three years copper mining has attained the position of being the most important form of mining in the province, and from all indications it should maintain this prominent place for years to come, as last year the value of the copper mined exceeded the total value of all other metalliferous minerals mined in the province, and was also nearly double the combined value of coal and coke production. It formed about 60 per cent. of the total value of the metalliferous mines and 43 per cent. of the total mineral production. In the working of the large, low-grade copper deposits and the subsequent smelting of the ores produced, a great number of men are employed and a large proportion of the money value is retained in the country in the payment of wages and purchase of supplies.

All the copper ores carry small amounts of the precious metals, and therefore any increase in the copper production also increases the output of gold and silver. The high price of copper during the past year has stimulated prospecting and the development of copper claims, and there is no doubt that the provincial output will steadily grow in future years.

Zinc

The quantity of zinc produced in 1917 amounted to 41,848,513 lb., which, compared with 37,168,980 lb. produced in 1916, shows an increase of 4,679,533 lb. This production is valued at $3,166,259.

The following table shows the zinc production from 1914 onwards:

	Lb.	Value
1913	6,758,768	$ 324,421
1914	7,866,467	346,125
1915	12,982,440	1,460,524
1916	37,168,980	4,043,985
1917	41,848,513	3,166,259

The largest production of zinc is from the Sullivan mine, Fort Steele Division, which last year produced approximately one-half of the provincial production. Most of the remainder of the output is made in the Slocan division, being produced as a zinc concentrate in the mills treating silver-lead-zinc ore.

In 1916 an electrolytic zinc treatment plant was installed at the Trail smelter. This plant is now making an output of about 40 tons a day of refined zinc. A large part of the zinc concentrates produced in the Slocan go to zinc smelters in the United States, but part is treated at Trail.

Other Minerals

Since the commencement of the war there has been a steadily growing demand for minerals and metals which are but little known by the general public. This was caused by the curtailing of former sources of supply and the general interruption of the world's markets. Many of these minerals rose to high prices, due to scarcity and to the fact that modern war materials require for their manufacture many different metals and mineral products. The enormous output of munitions occasioned the great demand and consequent rise in price of copper, lead and zinc, but many other less well known metals are also required in comparatively great quantities.

Some of these minerals are known to exist in British Columbia, and during the last two years attempts in a small way have been made to develop these deposits. Other mineral products, not directly used in war materials but in demand owing to supplies having formerly come from enemy countries, have been prospected for in the province.

The following paragraphs give brief details about these minerals:

Iron Ore

The past year has seen a very great demand for iron and steel on the Pacific Coast, the normal demand having been greatly increased by the need for steel in shipbuilding and munitions work, while the usual outside sources have been monopolized by war needs in other parts of the world, and the high freight rates have made the lack of local production more pronounced. Consequently, it has been strongly advocated in many quarters that the conditions are favourable for the establishment of an iron-smelting plant somewhere on the British Columbia coast. So far nothing definite has materialized, although there is apparently a prospect of such a plant being established on this coast. As is well known, there is on the coast, in the aggregate, an adequate supply of magnetite iron ore, quite sufficiently free from impurities as to be within the Bessemer limit, to supply ore for such a plant.

The magnetite deposits of the coast have therefore had some attention bestowed on them during the past year; this, however, was mainly confined to examination, with but little development. Bulletin No. 3, 1917, of the B. C. Mines Department describes the more important magnetite deposits of the coast.

Platinum

A small quantity of crude platinum is recovered each year from placer-mining operations in the Similkameen District. The price of platinum has advanced greatly in the last two years, owing to heavy demands and a shortage of supply. This has occasioned considerable interest in the possibility of more extensive placer-mining for platinum (and associated gold) in the Similkameen District. The occurrence of small quantities of platinum in place in the peridotite rocks of the Upper Tulameen River has been known of for years, and now that refined platinum has reached a price of over $100 an ounce, prospecting has been resumed to see if any zones in this formation can be found which would pay to work for the platinum content.

Molybdenum

Considerable interest has been evinced during the past year in molybdenite deposits, owing to the high price of this mineral, caused by demands for war purposes. This mineral, which is a sulphide of molybdenum, is used in the manufacture of special high-grade steel for guns. The actual output of molybdenite during the year was 152 tons of ore, containing about 12,000 lb. of molybdenite. Nearly all this production was from the Molly Group, on Lost Creek, in the Nelson Mining Division. The market requirements are such that a molybdenite ore must be concentrated up to 85 or 90 per cent. molybdenite (MoS_2) before it is marketable. The Lost Creek property has several thousand tons of from 2 to 4 per cent. ore, so that, with a suitable mill, a steady production could be maintained.

Another property, on Alice Arm, in the Skeena Mining Division, controlled by J. D. Ross, of Seattle, is reported to have a large showing of molybdenite. A mill was erected on the property in 1916 and about 383 tons of 2 per cent. ore was treated. Other prospects in the Nelson, Kamloops and Lillooet Mining Divisions showing some molybdenite have been investigated, but as yet none of them has assumed any great importance.

Molybdenite ore, concentrated so as to contain 85 to 90 per cent. of that mineral, is now worth in Canada about $2,000 a ton.

Regulations have now been made by the Dominion Government allowing the export of molybdenite ore to the United States. The price in the States has been about double the Canadian price, so that if this high price continues, a further incentive is provided to mining the molybdenite ores of the province.

At the Molly, the Index, and at Alice Arm there are considerable tonnages of low-grade ore, and if these mines were equipped with small but suitable concentrating mills a regular production could be maintained.

Manganese

Manganese is used in steel-making, and during the last year has been in demand owing to increases in steel production.

Near Kaslo a manganese deposit has been developed during the past year, and there is said to be a considerable tonnage ready for shipment.

The Dominion Government has recently modified the embargo restrictions on shipping manganese ore to the United States, so that the Kaslo property will probably make a production during 1918.

Tungsten

Tungsten is also used in the making of special steels, and the market price of tungsten ores, although fluctuating, is now at a good figure.

So far as is known, no tungsten ore has been produced in shipping quantities from the province, but tungsten minerals, generally in association with other minerals, have been noted in a few localities.

A deposit of scheelite (calcium tungstate) has been known of for many years, situated near Barkerville, Cariboo District, and it is probable this will be developed in the near future.

Antimony

Antimony is another metal which at first advanced greatly in price owing to war demands, but a largely increased production from China soon brought the price back to normal again. Its principal use in war material is to harden the lead bullets used in shrapnel.

Antimony usually occurs in nature as stibnite, the sulphide of antimony, and is a common mineral in British Columbia, occurring in association with lead and zinc ores. It does not, however, as a rule, occur in large quantities, but attempts are now being made in a few places to sort it out from its associated minerals. Twenty-seven tons of antimony ore was shipped from the Alps-Alturas property, situated on a fork of Carpenter Creek, in the Slocan Mining Division, in 1916; this ore carried from 50 to 60 per cent. antimony. Reports of small test shipments from other claims have been heard.

Chromite

At the present time there is a considerable demand for chromite, which is used for various purposes, including steel-making. Small deposits of chromite occur in the Tulameen District, but so far have been considered too small to be developed.

A deposit near Cascade, Grand Forks Mining Division, is now being developed, and other occurrences are being prospected.

Non-metallic Minerals

The following minerals are at the present time in demand, and search for all of them is being carried on in British Columbia: Bauxite, fluorite magnesite, graphite, China clay, feldspar, mica, phosphate, strontianite, epsomite talc, Fuller's earth, potash, soda, pyrite for the sulphur in it, etc.

Although most of the above minerals may not be needed in large quantities, yet the present high prices of the products is an incentive to intensive prospecting.

One hundred and five tons of talc were shipped from the Lillooet District in 1917, and an increasing production may be expected.

Several hundred tons of epsomite (magnesium sulphate), which is used in the drug trade, were shipped from Osoyoos Division.

For the first time in the history of the province there was a production of arsenic. This was made from the Nickel Plate mine of the Hedley Gold Mining Company and amounted to $20,000. The arsenic occurs as arsenical iron pyrites in the concentrates shipped to the Tacoma smelter by this company. These concentrates have been going to the smelter for years, but until the recent installation of an arsenic burner the arsenic content was not recovered.

The production of miscellaneous minerals in British Columbia in 1917 was valued at $37,029.

Coal and Coke

The gross production of coal in 1917 was 2,398,715 long tons, of which 248,740 tons was made into coke, leaving net production at 2,149,975 tons. These figures show a decrease, as compared with 1916, of 86,865 tons gross, and an increase of 65,882 tons net. The quantity of coke made was 159,905 tons, which is a decrease of 107,820 tons as compared with 1916. For purposes of comparison the following table is shown:

Hydraulic Mining, Wild Horse Creek, Fort Steele Mining District

		1917	1916	1915	1914	1913	1912
Coal, gross	tons, 2,240 lb.	2,398,715	2,485,580	1,972,580	2,166,428	2,570,760	3,025,709
Less made into coke ...	"	248,740	401,487	361,451	355,461	433,277	396,905
Coal, net	"	2,149,975	2,084,093	1,611,129	1,810,967	2,137,483	2,628,804
Coke made	"	159,905	267,725	245,871	234,577	286,045	264,333

Summarizing the provincial production of coal, the following table shows the output for 1917:

	Tons of 2,240 lb.
From Vancouver Island collieries	1,695,721
From Nicola and Similkameen collieries	151,243
From Crow's Nest District collieries ...	551,751
Total quantity of coal mined	2,398,715
Less made into coke	248,740
Net quantity of coal produced	2,149,975

In addition to the above net production of coal, there was made the coke production shown in the following table:

	Tons of 2,240 lb.
From Vancouver Island collieries	30,406
From Nicola and Similkameen collieries	Nil
From Crow's Nest District collieries ...	129,499
Total	159,905

As will be seen by the above figures, the net coal production for 1917 was 65,882 tons (2,240 lb.) greater than it was in 1916, and again about reached the figures prevailing before the war began.

This output would have been considerably greater had not the Crow's Nest Collieries met with a series of misfortunes during the year that interfered with production, and in addition to this there was a serious shortage of labour—partly caused by the heavy enlistment of the younger men—and in the fall there were labour troubles.

All these contributed to occasion a shortage of both coal and coke when the demand was most keen.

Coke.—The production of coke in 1917 was 159,905 tons (2,240 lb.), which is 107,820 tons less than the preceding year, a decrease of 40 per cent., which was caused by labour troubles in the Crow's Nest field.

Structural Materials, Etc.

The output of all structural materials, such as cement, lime, building-stone, sand and gravel, brick, and other clay products, shows a slight decrease from that of previous years.

The output for 1917 is valued at $1,204,546 as against $1,299,553 in the preceding year, $2,852,917 in 1914, and $3,398,100 in 1913.

Since 1912, when a production amounting to $3,435,722 was recorded, the output of building materials has steadily declined, due to the cessation of the building trade, brought about by the continued financial depression, and the war. It is probable that the figures have now reached a minimum, and that an output amounting from $1,000,000 to $1,250,000 represents the steady yearly demand for these materials for use in repairs, renewals, and various small demands, without any new construction work. It may be expected, therefore, that the production will remain at about this figure until a period of active construction work again commences in the province.

Portland cement is at present the most important item in the production of building materials, amounting in 1917 to a little under $500,000.

The outputs of building-stone, crushed rock, sand and gravel, and red brick have fallen to very low figures. A considerable quantity of fire brick and similar material is made, principally by the large plant of the Clayburn Company.

Department of Lands

Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands

Land

The Province of British Columbia is assumed to have an area of 238,489,600 acres, of which 41,814,991 acres have been disposed of in the manner set out below:

			ACRES
Crown granted			12,278,841
Indian reserves			753,931
Railway grants			4,138,334
Dominion Government:
Railway belt		17,050,000
Peace River block		3,500,000
Kootenay road reserve		288,000
			20,838,000
In process of alienation:
Applications to purchase		511,932
Pre-emptions		992,001
Surveyed mineral claims		409,066
			1,912,999
Parks and game preserves			1,892,886
			41,814,991

This leaves 196,674,609 acres of land, the title of which is at the disposal of the Crown, made up as follows:

			ACRES
Timber licences and leases surveyed			7,685,029
Timber licences and leases unsurveyed			2,385,097
Reserved for university			771,401
Reserved for sale by auction			189,000
Reverted under purchase applications:
Surveyed		1,887,000
Unsurveyed		342,000
			2,229,000
Surveyed for pre-emption			2,397,978
Unsurveyed and unencumbered Crown land			180,368,624
Lands at present under coal or grazing lease and licence			648,480
			196,674,609

The total area mentioned above includes lakes, mountains and other waste lands of the Crown, and for this reason the figures quoted above, while substantially correct, cannot be taken as being mathematically exact, and the rough and broken nature of British Columbia as compared with the prairie provinces is a fact that should never be overlooked by the prospective settler or land-seeker. There are, of course, large areas of land suitable for settlement in the valleys and interior plateaux, particularly in the northern interior along the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and the Peace River country; but the land suitable for settlement in the southern interior and coast districts is, except in certain isolated cases, very scarce. These parts of the province having been settled for a large number of years, it naturally follows that the best land has already been located upon.

Large areas of land along the west coast of Vancouver Island, as well as on the coast of the mainland, still remain unalienated, but to a large extent they are so heavily timbered that even after they are "logged off" the stumping and bringing of them into suitable shape for agriculture presents great difficulties. The settler on these lands must therefore be prepared to expend a good deal of time and energy in clearing before he can expect to realize any great profit.

For the reasons set out above, the intending settler is invariably advised by the Lands Department to make a close personal inspection of districts which appeal to him before definitely arranging to settle in British Columbia.

For the person wishing to engage in mixed farming or stock-raising the central and northern parts of the province offer splendid locations if he is prepared to expend the energy necessary to clear and cultivate the land, as it is seldom that areas of any great extent exist that are naturally ready for the plow. Open land is found in some districts, but generally in comparatively small patches which are interspersed with timber of varying size.

In an article of this nature it is, of course, impossible to enter into a detailed description of any district, but speaking generally it will be to the advantage of the intending settler, particularly if his means are limited, to investigate the possibilities of districts for which transportation is provided by the existing railways.

With the exception of the Dominion Railway Belt, which consists of the land lying within twenty miles on either side of the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the Peace River block, the lands of British Columbia are administered by the Provincial Government.

Below is given a synopsis of laws relating to land in British Columbia, but it would be to the advantage of any person desiring information in connection with acquiring such land to communicate with the Deputy Minister of Lands, whose address is Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B. C.

Land Act

Land may be acquired under this Act by purchase, pre-emption or lease in the manner set out hereunder:

Purchase

Any of the unoccupied and unreserved lands of the Crown in the right of the province (not being part of an Indian settlement) may be purchased, but Crown grants will not issue until the land has been improved in accordance with the Land Act.

If the land sought to be purchased is surveyed, the application must be accompanied by 25 per cent. of the purchase price according to the classification, i.e., first and second class, the price being $10.00 per acre and $5.00 per acre respectively. The balance is payable in three equal annual instalments, together with interest at 6 per cent. per annum on the unpaid balance.

If the land is unsurveyed, it must be staked, advertised and applied for in accordance with the Land Act. The application to be accompanied by a deposit of 50 cents per acre. If the application is accepted the land must be surveyed, at the expense of the applicant, and payment made in full within six months from the date of acceptance.

Pre-emption

Any of the unoccupied and unreserved surveyed lands (not being part of an Indian settlement) may be pre-empted. That is, a free grant of 160 acres may be obtained on the completion of certain residence and improvement duties, which are described with particularity in the Land Act, but briefly are as follows:

Who May Pre-empt

Any British subject, being—

(a) The head of a family:

(b) A widow:

(c) A femme sole who is over eighteen years of age and self-supporting:

(d) A woman deserted by her husband:

(e) A bachelor over the age of eighteen years,— may, for agricultural purposes only, pre-empt land to the extent of 160 acres. Such right shall not extend to foreshore or tidal lands, or to the bed of the sea, or lands covered by navigable waters.

An alien, upon making a declaration of his intention to become a British subject, may also acquire the right to pre-empt.

Application in the form of a statutory declaration setting out nationality, land applied for, that the land is not timber land and that the land is taken up for agricultural purposes, is made to the Commissioner for the district, accompanied by the fee of two dollars. After the record is granted the pre-emptor must enter into occupation within 60 days of the date of the record, and upon the completion of actual improvements to the extent of $10.00 per acre, including the clearing and bringing under actual cultivation of at least five acres, and five years' residence (residence is defined as continuous bona fide residence of the pre-emptor or his family on the land recorded by him), be entitled to receive a certificate of improvement therefor, the fee for which is $2.00, and a Crown grant of the land on the payment of a fee of $10.00.

Provision is made whereby a pre-emptor can obtain a record and not enter into immediate occupation; but in this case he must spend each year $300.00 in actual improvements, exclusive of buildings, and file proof each year of having done so; but must reside on the land for two years before the issue of the Crown grant, which would in no case be until at least five years after the date of the pre-emption record.

The intending pre-emptors are requested to communicate with the Deputy Minister of Lands, Victoria, or any of the Government Agents or Land Commissioners, whose addresses are set out below, for fuller and more detailed information.

Lease

Provision is made for the granting of leases for homesite purposes, not exceeding 20 acres in area, and upon the performance of certain residence and improvement duties, among them being the erection of a dwelling during the first year of tenancy, shall, at the expiration of the term of lease, be entitled to a free Crown grant, provided all the terms of the lease have been faithfully carried out.

Provision is made in the Land Act for the granting of leases of Crown lands in any desired area for grazing or industrial purposes, and a committee consisting of officials of the Lands Department and prominent cattle and sheep raisers of British Columbia is at the present time (June, 1918) compiling information and data on which to base terms, rules and regulations under which leases would be granted to persons who are able to produce bona fides of their intention to actually develop the area applied for.

All applications for land must be made at the office for the recording district in which the land applied for is situated. A list of offices follows:

Correspondence should be addressed to the Government Agent at the respective post offices shown above.

Land for Soldiers

The Provincial Government of British Columbia, by an Act entitled the Soldiers' Land Act, passed at the 1918 session of the Legislature, has made provision for the making of free grants of land for returned soldiers, free from taxation for five years and subject only to reasonable residence and improvement duties.

This Act also provides for the conveyance to the Dominion Government, free of cost, but subject to reasonable residence and improvements, of suitable lands for the settlement thereon by the Soldier Settlement Board, appointed by the Dominion Government, of British Columbia soldiers.

The Lands Department has already thrown open one block of land for settlement by returned soldiers only, and is examining as rapidly as possible other areas in various sections of the province to determine their suitability for the same purpose. These will, if found suitable, be opened from time to time.

Further information may be obtained on application to the Deputy Minister of Lands.

Water Resources

All the water in rivers and streams of the province is in the right of the Crown and may be appropriated for various purposes under the rules and regulations of the Water Act. Of these purposes the most important are power and irrigation. In respect of the first mentioned, there is probably no area on the continent of America so favoured in water-power resources. Large power sites are strategically situated so that in time many districts may be served with electrical energy by transmission lines of economic length.

It is of interest to note that contiguous to Vancouver, our largest centre of population, within a radius of 100 miles there is available well over 750,000 horse-power, of which approximately 150,000 horse-power is developed. About 30,000 horse-power is developed on the Kootenay River, near Nelson, and is supplying smelters at Trail and Grand Forks, the former being one of the largest in America and one of the few now producing gold, silver, copper, zinc and lead. In regard to irrigation, such is largely practised south of the 51st parallel of latitude. Water has been recorded for upwards of 600,000 acres of land, of which approximately 100,000 have been brought under cultivation. Our fruit areas depend largely if not wholly upon irrigation. The largest and one of the most important of these is the Okanagan Valley, which now has a large, well established fruit and vegetable industry. Other valleys are also established in this respect.

For further and more detailed information in this connection enquiries should be addressed to the Comptroller of Water Rights, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, or the Deputy Minister of Lands.

The following summary gives the volume of business transacted in the province over a number of years, for the purpose of comparison:

The right to cut Crown timber can be obtained under a timber sale contract under the Forest Act by complying with the provisions hereunder:

Upon application being made to the Chief Forester, Victoria, or to the local District Forester, any desired area of Crown timber will be cruised, surveyed (if necessary), and advertised for sale by tender. The period required for advertisement is as follows:

(1) Over five million feet B.M., two months.

(2) One to five million feet B.M., one month.

(3) Less than one million feet B.M., one to four weeks.

(4) Should the stumpage value to the Crown be less than $100, the local District Forester may make a sale without advertisement.

During the period of advertisement all intending purchasers are furnished with full particulars of the sale, including blue-prints showing the location and area, description and estimate of timber, upset price (which is the lowest tender that will be considered), copy of the sale contract, and tender forms.

The tender must be accompanied by a certified cheque, negotiable at par by the department in Victoria, or by cash, including the following items:

(1) Cost of advertising.

(2) Cost of cruising and survey (if any).

(3) Annual rental (approximately 22 cents per acre on coast, and 16 cents per acre in interior).

(4) Forest Protection Tax (at 1½ cents per acre).

(5) Deposit of 10 per cent. of the stumpage price tendered, which will be dealt with as follows: (a) Returned forthwith if tender is not accepted; (b) held in trust to be returned upon the satisfactory completion of the contract; (c) forfeited to the Crown if the contract is not completed to the satisfaction of the minister.

Each sale contract specifies the period within which operations are required to be completed. Should any timber remain uncut at the date of expiration, application may be made in the regular way for a new sale to cover the unlogged area.

Timber-sale contracts are not transferable.

The provision permitting the District Forester to make small sales under $100 without advertisement should be of special interest to small operators and hand-loggers, as sales can in this way be put through with the least possible delay and expense.

Small sales also have a distinct advantage over hand-loggers' licences inasmuch as they are not of a personal nature and have no restrictions as to the logging equipment used or the number of men employed.

Further information will be supplied on request to the Deputy Minister of Lands or the Chief Forester.

Statistics Relating to Agriculture

Hon. E. D. Barrow, Minister of Agriculture.

DOMINION BUREAU OF STATISTICS
DEC 7 1938
PROPERTY OF THE

Areas

The total area of British Columbia is 226,186,370 acres, exclusive of lakes. According to the 1911 Dominion census, the estimated area of possible farm land was 22,618,000 acres, or 10 per cent. of the total area, and the total area occupied as farm land was 2,540,011 acres, or 11.2 per cent. of the area estimated as possible farm land. In the year 1917 the total area under cultivation, not including broken meadow pasture, was 319,420 acres, or 12.6 per cent. of the area occupied as farm land, and 1.4 per cent. of the possible farm land area, or 0.1 per cent. of the total area of the province.

Of the total area occupied as farm land, according to the 1911 census, 81.56 per cent. was owned, 18.45 per cent. leased or rented, 18.80 per cent. improved, 81.20 per cent. unimproved, 60.79 per cent. natural forest, and 3.10 per cent. marsh or waste land. The total number of farm holdings was 18,467.

The distribution of farm holdings was as follows:

Area	Number	Per cent. of total
Under 1 acre	1,509	8.17
1 to under 5 acres	2,888	15.64
5 to 10 acres	2,754	14.91
11 to 50 acres	3,849	20.84
51 to 100 acres	1,754	9.50
101 to 200 acres	3,743	20.27
200 acres and over	1,970	10.67

Value of Farm Property
(Dominion Census)

The following statement shows the value of farm property in 1911:

Land	$141,421,477.00
Buildings	29,479,522.00
Implements	3,548,656.00
Live stock	14,186,069.00
Total	$188,635,724.00

The above total value represents an increase since 1901 of 463.23 per cent.

The average value per farm in 1911 was as follows:

Land	$ 7,658.06
Buildings	1,596.34
Implements	192.16
Live stock	768.19
Total	$10,214.75

Land Prices

In 1911 the average value per acre of land occupied as farm land was $55.68. In 1913, when a census was taken by the Provincial Government, values of land in the more developed sections and on the coast, most suitable for mixed farming, were found to range from $100.00 to $300.00 for timbered land, and from $200.00 to $400.00 for cleared and developed land. In this same section rental charges were from $10.00 to $20.00 per acre, the tenant in many instances paying the taxes.

Throughout the interior sections of the province values in 1913 varied according to location and conditions. Those in the dry mixed farming sections of the Thompson River watershed were from $10.00 to $25.00 per acre for mixed farming land. In the Okanagan Valley, where the land had previously been largely devoted to fruit-growing, values of such land averaged from $200.00 to $250.00 for unplanted, and from $300.00 to $700.00 for planted land, the latter depending upon location and degree of development.

In the Kootenay districts values ranged from $30.00 to $50.00 in the dry section, to $100.00 in the more humid sections.

The above prices were those ruling during the ebb of the real estate boom. Comparatively little land since that time has been disposed of at such prices, however, and good land can now be purchased for much less.

Cost of Clearing

The cost of clearing land ready for the plough, in the humid sections of the province, under normal conditions, averages from $100.00 to $250.00 per acre, whilst in the dry belts of the interior the cost would range from $120.00 to $150.00. There are, however, many comparatively open sections where the cost would not exceed $30.00 to $50.00 per acre to clear. This applies also to those sections in Central British Columbia, along the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. Further, there are many large areas requiring no clearing whatever, particularly in the Peace River district.

Production has shown a substantial increase in the last nine years. In 1909 the total value was estimated at $8,000,000, whilst imports in that year amounted to $11,110,237, or nearly 39 per cent. in excess of production. In 1914 the value of production exceeded imports by nearly 20 per cent. and in 1917 by 90 per cent. The increase shown in production in 1917 over 1916 was more due to high prices which obtained during the year, rather than to increased quantity, which was 6.56 per cent. greater, whilst the value was 17.02 per cent. greater than in 1916.

The increasing depletion of land-tillers occasioned by the present war has rendered difficult any marked development in quantities of agricultural products. Notwithstanding, those remaining on the land have displayed a noble effort, and whilst the cost of operation has materially increased, yet prices realized for all products have been such as to more than offset increased cost and amply reward producers for their extra effort.

Our farmers, owing to the scarcity and high cost of labour and the increased cost of stumping powder, have found it impossible to undertake any extensive land-clearing and are therefore confining their efforts to areas most available for crops.

The total quantity of agricultural products in 1917 shows an increase of 6.56 per cent. over the previous year, which was due largely to the fact that the season was somewhat more favourable for crops than in 1916, when on Vancouver Island and throughout the central and northern districts of the province drought caused light crops, even resulting in almost a total failure in many sections of the latter districts.

In addition to the foregoing, there are approximately 33,000 acres of fruits of all kinds. In 1916 there were 1,480 acres of small fruits, being chiefly made up of strawberries and raspberries in the Lower Mainland and Vancouver Island sections. The balance of the total area of fruits is comprised chiefly of apples, of which over 87 per cent. was produced in the Okanagan and Boundary districts in 1917.

Of the total area of land under crop in 1917, fodders comprised over 62 per cent. and grain for threshing over 30 per cent.

Of the total area of grains, 64 per cent. was oats, for which the province is well adapted.

With the exception of that in the dry belt, the wheat produced in this province is largely grown for local consumption as chicken feed, being of a somewhat soft grade. In the dry belts of the interior, however, and especially during more recent years, increased attention has been given, through proper seed selection, to the production of harder wheat. This is particularly true of those sections south of Kamloops, Enderby and Armstrong, and the Peace River block (Northern British Columbia). The progress in the last-mentioned section in grain-growing in recent years has been very marked, being made comparatively easy by the open nature of the country.

British Columbia's imports of cereal products are annually comparatively heavy, the value consisting in 1917 of nearly 36 per cent. of the total imports. Of cereal products imported, over 50 per cent. was as flour.

Fodders are now being produced in quantity nearly sufficient to take care of local consumption requirements.

The advent of the silo has done much to bring fodder corn into prominence, which, while yet comparatively small in area, has nevertheless increased over 143 per cent. since the year 1914, when the silo was practically unknown in the province.

Of the area of vegetables, potatoes comprise the largest percentage, of which large quantities have been exported in the last two years. Roots are grown in large quantities, but these are mostly consumed by live stock, particularly dairy cattle.

Truck vegetables are largely grown in the coast sections and around Armstrong, by Orientals. Extensive areas of tomatoes and onions are produced in the Okanagan Valley, where both crops do well.

Live Stock

Progress in this industry during the last few years may be noted in the following statement, showing numbers existing in the province during the years 1911 and 1913 to 1917 (1911 Dominion census, subsequent years Provincial and Dominion estimates):

Kind	1911	1913	1914	1915	1916	1917

Poultry	1,012,220	803,261	964,200	718,000	839,100	1,368,000

In 1911 and 1917 estimates are up to June, and for other years to the end of the calendar year. The variation shown may not be actual, but may be due to different methods of collecting data and determining totals.

The horse-breeding industry of the province has been somewhat curtailed during the last few years by the rapid increase in motor power. In the past a large percentage of this class of stock has been of the lighter weight, bred on ranges, but more attention is now being paid to heavier stock, bred on the farm. The present war has created a market for a large number of horses, of which many have been shipped out of the province during the past two or three years.

Dairying

The permanent agriculture of America will be composed very largely of intelligent dairy farming. Those of our people who see the handwriting on the wall and prepare early with any one of the recognized dairy breeds will be the ones to do the most good and reap the first harvest. This is the conclusion arrived at by the National Dairy Show Association in conjunction with the National Dairy Council of the United States.

It is because they believe the dairy cow capable of making the most economical use of foods in themselves unsuitable for human consumption that the dairy men believe that our future type of farming will be largely dairying. This may be said to be particularly true of British Columbia, where we have large tracts of unoccupied lands which by proper development and intelligent cultivation are especially suited to dairy farming. As the enormous lumbering of the country is rapidly taking off large tracts of timber, it is quite reasonable to believe that in the future much of these logged-off lands will be seeded to grass and afford cheap dairy pasture. In the intermountain valleys there are many sections capable of irrigation and which can be made to produce abundant crops of clover, corn and alfalfa—the three great dairy feeds. The mainland coast districts and the developed lands of the E. & N. Railway belt on Vancouver Island constitute the main dairy sections of the province. During the past three years, however, dairying has been very successfully carried on in interior sections, consequent upon the establishing of creameries at Salmon Arm, Armstrong, Kelowna, Revelstoke, Grand Forks and Nelson. In the newer parts of the province opened up by the Grand Trunk Pacific and Pacific Great Eastern Railways there are immense areas where dairying may in time be profitably followed.

In the coast districts the grazing season is especially long, the growth of nutritious grasses in early spring and late fall being an important factor in the economical production of milk. In many parts of Southern British Columbia the winters are sufficiently mild to make expensive buildings unnecessary, and cattle can be outside almost every day of the year. An abundant supply of pure water is everywhere present, and this is one of the most important conditions favourable to the industry.

The local market for dairy products is scarcely excelled by any country in the world, and as a consequence prices are satisfactory. The importation of butter and cheese has in past years run into the millions of dollars. Even with greatly increased production an ever-widening market is maintained. The cities in the province, which are sure to increase in size and number, provide a market right at hand for many years to come, and those who are nearest to these markets are always sure of a satisfactory price for a good article.

Dairy farming is intensive farming, and a comparatively small area is sufficient to carry on such a system. One of the chief advantages that appeals to the dairy farmer of small means is the certainty of the returns. There is little of the element of speculation in this line of farming. The returns are not large at any one time, but steady throughout the year, and may be depended upon.

The market price of dairy products varies on the whole less than almost any other class of farm products, making it safe for the farmer of small capital, as well as for the larger.

Beef Cattle

The chief beef cattle ranges are at present to be found in the Nicola, Lillooet and Cariboo sections of the southern interior, where herds of 10,000 in number may be found. A large percentage of this class of stock is raised on bunch grass grazing, of which there are extensive areas. The completion of rail transportation in the more northerly sections will do much to bring the remote cattle-raising districts within easy reach of our local markets, the absence of which in the past somewhat discouraged local buyers, owing to the long drives to market.

During the warmer seasons of years when abnormal rainfall occurs, resulting in an abundance of rich grazing, the standard of beef marketed is unexcelled.

Breeders have of late been importing large numbers of pure-bred beef bulls, which augurs well for the future improvement of beef stock. Prices paid since the outbreak of the war have been high, thus adding much wealth to this industry, and which will no doubt continue to do so for many years to come.

Sheep

Sheep in the province up to the present time have not shown the increase warranted by the adaptability of the country to such stock. In many sections the depredations of wild animals have been a more or less discouraging factor, but as such sections become more developed this menace will decrease. Splendid sheep ranges may be found in the interior of the province, such as the Okanagan Valley, where it is estimated there is accommodation for 30,000 head. More recent co-operative wool marketing organization will be a great boon to the sheep industry. By this organization all wool may be marketed through one Dominion house, located at Toronto.

Wool prices have greatly increased during the present war, and these have been further enhanced by more careful grading, as required by recent organization.

Swine

Several years ago, when a large percentage of the fresh milk was utilized in the manufacture of butter, which left much skimmed milk on the farmers' hands, there were probably more swine in dairy sections than at present. As the population in the cities increased, so did the demand for fresh whole milk, with the result that swine herds decreased in proportion. Variation in the total number of swine is more likely to occur than with any other class of live stock, owing to their prolific nature and the short period required for market maturity, so that this industry more readily fluctuates, consequent upon the prices of feed and pork.

Poultry

Previous to the real estate activities in the province it may be stated that while there was a large number of poultry in the province, yet this industry was not commercialized until about the year 1913, when the real estate boom was over. In the fall of 1912 birds were very cheap, with the result that large numbers of urban residents gathered up flocks under their arms and went to the smaller rural tracts on real estate subdivisions in the city suburbs and rural sections. This move met with the least resistance in that both birds and feed at that time were cheap.

There has always been a good opportunity for expansion in this industry in British Columbia in view of the large quantities of eggs annually imported, which in 1912 and 1913 averaged 6,138,856 dozen as compared with the same average of 4,229,065 dozen produced within the province, showing that we are only producing about 40 per cent. of our consumption and trade requirements.

The coast section and Vancouver and Gulf Islands are good poultry-producing sections, the climate being moderate the year round, thus minimizing housing expenditure, which becomes correspondingly high as the more rigid winter climates of the interior are encountered.

Since 1914 this industry has suffered to a more or less extent as a result of the war, as many poultrymen have enlisted, whilst many of those still engaged in the industry and who are buying the necessary feed supplies are finding profits reduced owing to the high prices for such feed and cost of operation. Flocks, as a consequence, have in many instances had to be reduced, whilst many inefficient breeders have been compelled to close down entirely.

Whilst the total number of birds in the province has been reduced through the above causes, yet the poorer stock only has been disposed of, leaving the better grades under more experienced and successful management, so that the poultry industry, from a commercial standpoint, may be said to be placed on a sound basis at present.

Provincial Co-operation

From the year 1897, when co-operation first began in the province by the organization of Farmers' Institutes, good progress in this respect has been made.

There are at the present time 148 Farmers' Institutes, representing all sections of the province, resulting in much benefit to members in the way of important legislative measures. Material saving has also resulted to members through co-operative purchasing of feed supplies and stumping powder in large quantities.

Another good, live organization is the British Columbia Fruit-growers' Association, which first began in 1889 with a membership of 93, which has increased to over 800 at the present time. This organization has done much to advance the horticultural industry in the province by advertising British Columbia products in Canadian and foreign markets, formulating and extending marketing facilities, securing valuable freight and express concessions, as well as legislative protective measures.

The organization of Women's Institutes, started in 1909, shows healthy progress, there being at the end of 1917, 59 Institutes, with a total membership of 3,000. These Institutes have accomplished a great deal of good in bringing about better social conditions in our rural communities, and during the war noteworthy assistance has been rendered along Red Cross and patriotic lines.

The Dairymen's Association, made operative by Act of 1897, has more than justified its existence by doing much to encourage increased production of dairy products of improved standard in quality. Much good has also been accomplished in educating dairymen in this branch of farming. Through the influence of this association the institution of the test for bovine tuberculosis amongst dairy cattle was effected, which has done a great deal to reduce this disease in our herds. A vast improvement has also been effected in the standard of breeds in our dairy herds through the importation of pure-bred sires by this association.

The first local poultry associations were organized some twenty-seven or twenty-eight years ago on Vancouver Island. In 1910 the British Columbia Poultry Association was organized, the objects being directed towards encouraging the poultry industry of the province and formulating and directing uniform poultry shows.

In addition to the foregoing organizations are the British Columbia Stock-breeders' Association, British Columbia Bee-keepers' Association, Vancouver Island Flock-masters' Association, and the Agricultural Fairs Association.

Especially worthy of mention as an effective co-operative body is the Okanagan United Growers, Limited, which was organized in 1913, consisting of representatives from each of seven local associations in the Okanagan district. About 60 per cent. of the total fruit output of the district was marketed through this central agency in the first year's operation. The total value of fruit and vegetables handled in 1916 was approximately $1,000,000.

Other organizations, such as those at Gordon Head, Keating, Mission, Hammond and Hatzic, have demonstrated the value of the co-operative marketing of small fruits.

The above organizations also effect a material saving to their individual members through the purchase of supplies.

Still another splendid example of sound co-operative organization is found in the Milk Producers' Union in the Lower Fraser Valley, which controls practically all the milk produced in this valley. This organization is, no doubt, the most successful of its kind in the Dominion of Canada, whilst the standard of perfection attained and the resulting benefits should do much to stimulate further co-operation among dairymen in other sections of the province.

Good progress has also been made in the organization of creameries in dairy sections of the province. Under the Act of 1897, by virtue of which the Dairymen's Association became operative, provision was made in the objects of this association for the managing and operating of creameries co-operatively. In 1902 there were eight in operation, which number had increased to twenty-seven at the end of 1917.

Legislation

All the above co-operative organizations have not only been responsible in a large measure for the steady increase in agricultural production and improved quality generally, but their influence has been felt in the passage of many Acts, not only by the Provincial Legislature, but by the federal house as well, which have directly and indirectly benefited the industry a great deal.

Among recent Acts worthy of mention is the British Columbia Agricultural Act, 1915, declared operative in 1916, from which the most marked benefit provided is loans to farmers through a board of commissioners. This board under the terms of the Act is authorized to raise the sum of $15,000,000 for an agricultural credit system. Money may be loaned to farmers covering long terms at a reasonable rate of interest, for the development of their holdings and to increase production. The opportunity afforded by such an Act should do a great deal to encourage and develop agriculture in British Columbia and place the industry on a firm basis of prosperity.

Agricultural Instruction Act

Perhaps no better proof can be had of the sincerity of the Federal Government in furthering educational and demonstration work along agricultural lines in all the provinces of the Dominion than the Agricultural Instruction Act recently passed by the Dominion Government through the efforts of the Hon. Martin Burrell, ex-Federal Minister of Agriculture.

The total amount apportioned under this Act to this province to date is $254,933.90.

The moneys are expended in accordance with an annual agreement between the Dominion and Provincial Ministers of Agriculture in order that the benefit to all lines of agriculture may be equal.

Botanical Survey of British Columbia

J. Davidson, Botanist and Director

Established by the Provincial Government, June, 1911, with botanical office and herbarium in Vancouver, and botanical garden at Essondale, B. C.

J. Davidson, F.L.S., F.B.S.E., Botanist and Director of Survey.

This department was established to ascertain the botanical resources of British Columbia, the distribution of all trees, shrubs, flowering plants and other species of vegetable life in the province; to supply information concerning the flora to botanical institutions abroad or to residents in the province; to assist teachers, ranchers, surveyors, and others in the identification of species of educational or economic importance; to give advice concerning native poisonous or medicinal plants, or species of value for fodder, native pasture, prevention of land erosion, or relating to afforestation and reafforestation problems.

In connection with the above work, a large staff of volunteer correspondents resident in different parts of the province collect specimens from each locality throughout the year. These specimens, together with others collected on expeditions of the office staff, have helped to form the herbarium, which contains between 12,000 and 15,000 sheets of pressed specimens, and a botanical garden collection of over 1,000 different species of native trees, shrubs and flowering plants.

In 1916 the work was transferred to the University of British Columbia, the herbarium, office, botanical library, and records being housed in the university buildings, Vancouver. The garden collection has been transplanted to a new location on the university site, Point Grey, where five acres were set aside for the native flora exhibit. This exhibit is open for public inspection and is visited annually by hundreds of tourists, and residents from different parts of the province.

A portion of the garden is devoted to native plants arranged according to their families, and apart from its value as part of the educational equipment of the university it is of considerable interest and value to amateur botanists, as well as to those only casually interested in the flora. Alpine, dry belt, and northern species are all represented; some are curious, many are showy, and a visit to the botanical garden will show more of the British Columbia flora in one hour than can be seen in one year's travel throughout the province.

Three profusely illustrated reports and a leaflet of instructions, etc., have been issued by this office since its establishment.

The Fisheries of British Columbia

Hon. Wm. Sloan, Commissioner of Fisheries

One of the most important and valuable assets of the Province of British Columbia is its fisheries, which in 1917 showed a market value of $21,615,330.00.

The waters are most prolific of all varieties of fish life, and the innumerable rivers and streams are the birthplace of vast quantities of both the commercial and sporting varieties of fish. From a commercial standpoint, the five varieties of salmon known as the spring salmon, sockeye salmon, cohoe salmon, humpback salmon and dog salmon, are the most valuable.

The sockeye salmon is known all over the world and has taken a foremost place as a canned food. Spring salmon as a fresh food is the most valuable of any variety and is in great demand. It is indigenous in more or less quantities in nearly all the inlets of the province, and has been caught during the past two years in large quantities off Barclay Sound, Clayoquot Sound, and Chatham Sound by trollers, the fishermen receiving as high as 9 cents a pound for the same on the fishing grounds.

A glance at the map will show interminable waterways and inlets—in fact, veritable seas up which the salmon are ascending for spawning purposes.

Commercial salmon-fishing has been carried on most intensively during the past five years, during which period the species known as fall fish, and which include cohoes, humpbacks and dog salmon, have become a valuable food commodity, the value enhanced by the present conditions.

During 1917 there were 6,990 licences issued in connection with the salmon industry, comprising 97 cannery licences, 96 purse-seine licences, 136 drag-seine licences, 5,287 gill-net licences, 1,358 trolling licences, and 16 salmon trap-net licences. The effect of the operations conducted under these licences resulted in the production of 77.855 per cent. of the total value of the fisheries of the province, and gave employment to 21,339 persons.

The waters of the Pacific Coast are also alive with herring at different seasons of the year, and in 1917, 487,241 cwts. were captured and placed on the market. These herring are put up in many forms, such as kippered, dry-salted, Scotch cured and canned, and this phase of the industry is open to and is receiving great attention and development.

To assist Nature in keeping up the supply of salmon for future generations, the Dominion Government operates twelve fish cultural establishments, having a total capacity for 116,000,000 of ova.

For the purpose of protection and enforcement of the fisheries regulations the province is divided into three districts, known as:

District No. 1—Comprising the Fraser River and the southern portion of the province.

District No. 2—The northern portion of the province.

District No. 3—Vancouver Island and part of the mainland opposite.

Each of these districts is under the supervision of an inspector, with headquarters at New Westminster, Prince Rupert and Nanaimo respectively. These inspectors are assisted by subordinate officers, some of whom are permanently employed and others from time to time, as their services may be required. During the year 1917 approximately one hundred persons were employed in the protection of the fisheries, and about 300 gasoline boats were engaged in patrolling the different fishing areas.

The waters of the Pacific Coast also produce considerable quantities of halibut, and while this fishery is not as valuable today as it was a few years ago, owing to intensive fishing, yet from Canadian vessels during the year 1917, 113,529 cwts. of halibut were landed in British Columbia ports, having a valuation of $1,721,012.00. This does not represent the total quantity of halibut landed in the province, as American vessels landed 134,475 cwts., mostly at Prince Rupert, at which port 747 deliveries were made by American vessels.

The waters also abound in large quantities of bottom fish, such as cod of several varieties, flounders, soles, and other species of sea fish, which as the public demand increases for this class of fish will be developed into a huge industry in itself.

Do not let it be thought that the most valuable fishery of the province, namely the salmon fishery, has been neglected or undeveloped by those in the fishing business, as operations for this variety have been very intensive and the demand for salmon-fishing licences is the subject of very keen competition. It would be well for those desirous of entering the fishing business to turn their attention to other varieties than salmon.

British Columbia heads the list of provinces of the Dominion in the value of her fishery products, and has done so for some years.

The value of the fishery products of Canada for the year ending March 31, 1917 (the last figures available) totalled $39,208,378.00. Of that amount, British Columbia produced $14,637,346.00, or 37.33 per cent. British Columbia fishery output exceeded that of Nova Scotia, the second in the list of provinces, by $4,544,444.00, and her fishery products equalled the total combined output of all the other provinces of the Dominion.

The following statement gives in their order of rank the value of the fishery output of the provinces of the Dominion for the year ending March 31, 1917:

PROVINCE	VALUE PRODUCED
British Columbia	$14,637,346.00
Nova Scotia	10,092,902.00
New Brunswick	5,656,859.00
Quebec	2,991,624.00
Ontario	2,658,993.00
Manitoba	1,390,002.00
Prince Edward Island	1,344,179.00
Saskatchewan	231,946.00
Alberta	144,317.00
Yukon	60,210.00
	$39,208,378.00

The total value of each species of fish taken during the year ending March 31, 1917, is as follows:

Salmon	$10,343,503.00
Cod	554,463.00
Herring	1,009,383.00
Whiting	1,087.00
Shad	825.00
Octopus	2,012.00
Halibut	2,026,670.00
Flounders	14,896.00
Smelts	18,440.00
Trout	2,675.00
Oulachons	68,398.00
Soles	56,752.00
Sturgeon	13,190.00
Perch	9,250.00
Skate	6,288.00
Tom-cod	664.00
Dog-fish	1,911.00
Mixed fish	17,310.00
Shrimps	4,380.00
Oysters	28,897.00
Clams	63,845.00
Crabs	32,002.00
Fur seal skins	4,770.00
Salmon roe	17,520.00
Fish oil	15,949.00
Whale oil	250,722.00
Bone meal	12,319.00
Gill bone	3,340.00
Fertilizer	55,885.00
	$14,637,346.00

The following table gives the number of men engaged in the fishery and the value of the fishing vessels, boats, nets, canneries, etc., in the province:

	NUMBER	VALUE
Steam fishing vessels (tonnage 1,443)	32	$ 635,424.00
Sailing and gasoline vessels	201	851,956.00
Boats (sail)	3,379	262,698.00
Boats (gasoline)	2,217	1,042,620.00
Carrying smacks	171	116,821.00
Gill nets, seines, trap and smelt nets, etc.	6,459	1,612,790.00
Halibut dories	46	4,600.00
Trawls	35	1,750.00
Hand lines	5,495	10,329.00
Crab traps	440	4,400.00
Halibut gear (skates)	3,000	47,500.00
Salmon canneries	84	3,301,573.00
Salmon traps	2	6,000.00
Freezers and ice-houses	21	1,616,500.00
Smoke and fish-houses	41	147,940.00
Fishing piers and wharves	94	486,047.00
Whaling stations	4	175,855.00
Oil factories	1	43,500.00
Clam canneries	1	3,000.00
		$10,371,303.00

Number of men employed on vessels	1,205
Number of men employed on boats	10,263
Number of men employed on carrying smacks	89
Number of persons employed in fish-houses, freezers, canneries, etc.	6,798
	18,355

The principal ports of landing are Prince Rupert and Vancouver. The principal offices of the leading canneries engaged in the fisheries are located in those cities.

The Dominion Government has the sole right to make regulations governing the methods of taking fish and the seasons.

The Dominion Government administration of the fisheries of British Columbia is under charge of Lieut.-Col. F. H. Cunningham, Chief Inspector of Fisheries, New Westminster. The province is divided into districts No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3, with an inspector in charge of each, under the direction of the Chief Inspector.

The Provincial Government maintains a fishery department, with headquarters in Victoria. The publications of that department deal comprehensively with the fisheries. Its contributions to the life history of the salmon, halibut, and herring and oysters are most valuable.

Department of Finance

HON. JOHN HART, Minister of Finance

Minister of Finance—HONOURABLE JOHN HART.

Deputy Minister of Finance — W. J. GOEPEL.

Comptroller-General—A. N. MOUAT.

Surveyor of Taxes and Inspector of Revenue—E. E. LEASON.

Inspector of Trust Companies and Succession and Probate Clerk—W. U. RUNNALLS.

The Department of Finance, as the name indicates, has control of all the province's financial transactions, the levying and collection of taxes, and the making of all disbursements. The general taxes collected through the agency of the several assessors and collectors throughout the province are paid into the treasury, and all receipts from licence and other fees and royalties collected by other departments are also dealt with by this department.

The Surveyor of Taxes and Inspector of Revenue is in charge of the assessors and collectors in the thirty assessment districts into which the province is at present divided. He has general oversight of the collection of all taxes. This branch of the department is in process of reorganization with a view to a more thorough and complete assessment of all taxable properties, and collection of all taxes and arrears from every source. Acting under him, during the summer of 1918, will be a number of specially qualified assessors who will be engaged in the making of a new assessment of all real property in the unorganized portions of the province.

The Controlling and Audit branch of the department has been reorganized by the present minister and is now exceptionally strong. At the head of the branch is the Comptroller-General, an officer of the Legislative Assembly, and responsible to it alone. The general duties of the Comptroller-General include the exercise of general supervision over all matters relating to this branch of the service; responsibility for the proper audit of all accounts, both at Victoria and, through the medium of travelling auditors, in all the Government agencies throughout the province; and general direction of the keeping of the accounts of the province. These accounts have to be kept by double entry and in such manner that there shall be shown at all times the standing of legislative appropriations and of all other accounts, and the precise condition of the province. By the adoption of the pre-audit system, the Comptroller-General has to be satisfied as to every proposed payment before the payment is made, thus securing a real control over the expenditure of public moneys. Under the Comptroller-General, in this connection, is an Auditor of Disbursements. For the purpose of exercising an audit over the collection of revenue, and further ensuring that collections are fully made, there is under the Comptroller-General an Auditor of Revenue.

The third division of this branch is that of the Purchasing Agent. Through this official all purchases, of whatever kind, which may be required for public service, will be made, and under his control will be all movable properties of the province. It is anticipated that a very large saving will be effected through the creation of this division of the Controlling and Audit branch. Duplication of plant and materials will be avoided; plant and machinery lying idle at any point can be moved to where they will be of service, and all old or surplus property will be sold instead of being allowed to deteriorate and become a source of loss.

Inspection of trust companies is within the jurisdiction of the Minister of Finance, as is also the inspection of insurance companies. The latter duties are now assigned to the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies, thus effecting considerable saving without any loss in the efficiency of the service rendered or the strictness of the inspection of these companies. The Inspector of Trust Companies is in charge of the collection of probate and succession duties, a large and important source of revenue.

The collection of the amusement tax is made through the Censor of Moving Pictures, who, for this purpose, is to that extent made an official of the Department of Finance.

Department of Public Works

Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works

The reorganization of the Department of Public Works for the Province of British Columbia, presided over by Hon. Dr. J. H. King, as minister, which took place during the last fiscal year, 1917-18, is accountable in large measure for the greatly increased efficiency and economy effected in the execution of the various undertakings of that department.

The plan adopted by Hon. Dr. King, of dividing the province into sections, each of which comes under the direct supervision of a district engineer, was to ensure an intelligent administration of the Public Works Department, particularly in the maintenance and repair of roads.

There seemed to be some apprehension on the part of the opposition members in the House that road appropriations would be based on political favour. Hon. Dr. King, however, wishes to remind the general public that the district engineers are all men of honourable character and of a high type, possessing wide technical and practical experience and without any political interest, and reports submitted by them to the department from time to time have been based on the merits or otherwise of the various cases from a purely engineering and business as well as economic standpoint. Personal and political factors will not be allowed to enter into the consideration of any appropriation.

With regard to proposed road plans and maintenance, trunk roads, etc., the engineers, through insufficient time, have been unable to complete plans showing roads, trails and mileage in their districts, but this work is progressing well and should be in the hands of the department within a short time. The mileage of roads and number of bridges in the province have been greatly increased in the last few years, and the Government must be prepared to expend a considerable sum of money to maintain the present system in order that they may protect the initial capital outlay. Last year the bridge vote was very small and only such repairs and renewals were undertaken as were immediately necessary. This year, however, a great many of these bridges must be renewed, and the Government, therefore, will be called upon to provide for a considerably larger expenditure in this connection.

In the matter of trunk roads, the department has endeavoured during the last year to undertake work in district municipalities on recognized roads only and to have the authorities of such municipalities assist towards the cost of such construction or maintenance. Wherever the Government has given grants to municipalities, the work thus undertaken has been directly under the supervision of the department's district engineer.

Increased motor traffic on main roads and others has created a situation which the Government will have to face in the near future. The only solution for a satisfactory road surface would seem to be the hard surface for roads contiguous to cities and thickly populated centres where a large volume of motor traffic obtains. Owing to the expense, however, the hard surface is out of the question for the present and will have to be considered at some stage of the prosperity of the province in the future.

To cite an instance of economy practised by Hon. Dr. King's department, a test made in the Esquimalt district with a Knox tractor has shown that gravel can be handled onto the roads by this equipment for one-quarter to one-half the cost by using teams. It is the intention of the department to use a number of these tractors in the handling of road construction materials, which will greatly facilitate the work in hand and expedite its conclusion.

The reorganization of Hon. Dr. King's department was also brought about with the view of co-operating with the various other departments of the Government, such as Mines, Agriculture, Lands, in which co-ordination would be effective. This working out has been demonstrated in many instances where other branches of the service were able to work in conjunction with his staff, thus effecting large savings of the public funds. The department further desires to co-operate with such associations as boards of trade, farmers' institutes, and other societies throughout the province, soliciting their assistance and advice on matters of mutual interest.

BRITISH COLUMBIA is a land of scenic enchantments, but if it possessed no scenic attractions, no beauty spots to lure the travelling motorist, its splendid highways would still prove of sufficient attraction to draw the enthusiastic tourist to its enchanted gates.

The invitation sounded by the magnificent drives of Vancouver Island, the roadways leading out of Vancouver city to the Fraser Valley, the Okanagan circuit and the international boundary, and the excellent roads of the great interior valleys and the Cariboo Road district, cannot be denied by the car owner who would enjoy his summer touring on firm, comfortable thoroughfares through scenery unsurpassed.

Perhaps no single week's tour in the entire Americas is more popular, more filled with ever-varying scenery, than is the international Georgian Circuit, which serves as a connecting link between the southwest portion of the Canadian province and the northwest corner of the United States.

Eliminating the distance covered by water, the entire route includes 447 miles, marking a complete circle around the waters of Puget Sound and the Gulf of Georgia. A complete description of the wonders of this drive is impossible in limited space. It may be begun at any point and ended at the same spot along the circuit.

From Seattle the circuit proceeds southward around the head of Puget Sound, passing through Tacoma and Olympia, the Washington State Capital, and then bends northward around Hood's Canal, easily the most scenic drive in the Olympic Peninsula, and up along the Strait of Juna de Fuca to Port Angeles. At this point the car is ferried across the strait to Victoria, the metropolis of Vancouver Island and capital of British Columbia, and thence a taste of the island highways is granted as far north as Campbell River and entrance to Strathcona (Provincial) Park, and as far west as Port Alberni.

Connection with Vancouver city, on the mainland, is made at Nanaimo, half-way between Victoria and Campbell River, and the second largest city on the island.

When the Gulf of Georgia has been crossed and Vancouver city enjoyed with its multitude of interesting drives, the car is headed southward through New Westminster to the international boundary, and thence follows the Pacific Highway down the coast line of Washington, through Bellingham and Everett, to the starting point.

Those tourists who touch the circuit first at Vancouver city may begin the drive from that city; those reaching Victoria first may start at that point; he circuit is complete from whatever starting point, and mountains, salt water and splendid highways leading through walled lanes of untouched forest combine in a trip never to be forgotten.

The Georgian Circuit, however, is but one of the drives possible to the British Columbia tourist. Weeks may be spent in Vancouver Island, the motorist finding accommodations wherever desired.

Practically all of the more popular routes lead along the northeastern side of the island, beginning at Victoria and including such drives as the Island Highway to Campbell River and Strathcona Park, 175 miles; Canadian Highway to Cameron Lake and Port Alberni, ending at Great Central Lake, 141 miles; Cowichan Lake, approximately 60 miles, past Esquimalt Harbour and the famous Malahat Mountain.

COLUMBIA HIGHWAY

Much as might be said of Vancouver Island highways, words fail in depicting the beauties of this "bit of England on the shores of the Pacific." As has been said: "Nature painted this gorgeous setting for the scenic wonderland and the residents of Vancouver Island have capitalized it by constructing a system of splendid highways dotted with attractive hotels." On the island are 1,000 miles of touring which cannot be found elsewhere in the world.

No one should leave Vancouver Island without lingering long enough to enjoy to the full the charm of Victoria and vicinity, the capital of British Columbia. The roads are magnificent, places of interest many, both scenic and historic.

The Parliament Buildings and Museum are beautiful architecturally, and interesting historically. A drive along the water's edge through golden gorse-covered Beacon Hill is delightful, and from this park one has a view across the Straits of Juan de Fuca with the snow-clad Olympics in full view 25 miles across the straits. From Beacon Hill the drive continues along innumerable beautiful bays, past the world-famed Oak Bay Golf Course, to Cadboro Bay and the home of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club. Observatory Hill, upon which is the second largest telescope in the world, may be visited.

There is the drive around Saanich Peninsula, passing Mount Douglas Park, Elk Lake and Patricia Bay, with the wonderful vistas which set the drive in a class by itself; also the circular drive to Metchosin and beyond to Sooke Harbour.

A visit to Esquimalt is interesting. This is one of Canada's Pacific naval bases.

Entering Penticton on the Canadian Highway

It should not be assumed because of the splendours of the island tours that nowhere else does British Columbia attract the motorist. On the mainland extending from Vancouver city are 150 miles of highways leading into the Fraser Valley, government-constructed and cared for, aside from 20 miles of asphalt and macadam in Vancouver city alone, not to mention the other highways leading from the mainland city.

Vancouver city is the present northern terminus of the International Pacific Highway. From here the broad highway leads down past Central Park and Burnaby to New Westminster, thence across the splendid Fraser River bridge to the graveled roads which shoot straight as an arrow through the tree lanes to the boundary. To the eastward leads the drive which seeks out Abbotsford and Chilliwack, and bends northward, crossing the Fraser River to Agassiz and Harrison Hot Springs, the Carlsbad of Canada, at the foot of the Great Harrison Lake.

About Vancouver itself are numberless drives for a few hours, an afternoon or a day. One such notable tour is that leading out to Capilano Canyon, near North Vancouver, achieved in three hours if one is pressed for time, but worthy of much more consideration because of its natural beauties.

The roadway to the canyon is ideal, and leads one directly to the famous suspension bridge, with chateau-like tea house; as well as down to the shore of Capilano River and rapids, with the second canyon but a few steps distant. The rugged scenery, the drop from civilization into the heart of the northwest forest, is accomplished so easily and quickly as to take one's breath away.

Out of Vancouver city the Marine Drive, following the shore line of English Bay along the Gulf of Georgia to the suburb of Point Grey, is another tour just long enough to satisfy the tourist who enjoys vistas of water scenery in the West.

In fact, the side tours out of Vancouver city would fill a small book. There is Stanley Forest Park, with a nine-mile auto road that is perfection itself completely encircling the area, with stops at the lighthouse, First Narrows, Indian huts and Siwash Rock, and all the other interesting features.

From north to south and from east to west through the great interior valleys of British Columbia (a territory larger than France) are many splendid scenic roadways.

Notwithstanding the fact that British Columbia, in proportion to population, undoubtedly holds the record for mileage of road construction and for expenditure upon roads, of any state or province in North America, yet, strange to relate, it is not possible for the motorists of the British Columbia coast cities to pass through the Cascade Mountains and to gain access to the roads of the interior of the province except by proceeding south into Washington, and thence east, through Snoqualmie Pass, over the National Parks Highway, turning north at Wenatchee, Wash., or at Spokane, according to the particular part of the interior of British Columbia it is desired to reach.

Years ago, when British Columbia was a separate British colony, an excellent stage road existed along the awe-inspiring gorges and canyons of the Fraser, through the Cascades, into the interior. Then came a desire for railway connection to the eastern colony of Canada, and finally British Columbia entered the Canadian federation and secured the desired railway. Unfortunately, in constructing the railway, in order to make room for the railway tracks, long stretches of the stage road through the most difficult mountain sections were destroyed, and it is only during the past few years, with the coming of motor vehicles, that a serious demand has arisen for the reconstruction of a highway across the Cascade Mountains.

Saanich Inlet, from the Island Highway

A tourist to the International Pacific Northwest should on no account fail to explore the highways of the British Columbia interior. These are roadways of a surprisingly high average quality, and better maintained than is the usual custom in similar country elsewhere.

Proceeding north from Wenatchee, Wash., by the Okanagan route, British Columbia is entered at Osoyoos Lake, and shortly afterwards is crossed the east and west cross-Canada road, the Canadian Highway, which is gradually being linked up from Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, on the Atlantic, to Cape Scott, Vancouver Island, upon the Pacific.

As in Washington, the general term for the district in which the motor tourist now finds himself is the "Okanagan," merging, in the north, into the Kamloops and Lillooet Divisions, and further to the north again is Cariboo. East and west of Osoyoos Lake, and particularly northerly, extends a network of thousands of miles of roads, with innumerable scenic attractions and many resorts, abounding in trout lakes, rivers and streams.

The motor tourist will be surprised at the many thriving little cities and towns throughout all this territory, and also at the numerous splendid orchards, farms and agricultural prosperity.

From Osoyoos Lake it is possible for the motorist to proceed north for over 400 miles, most of which distance is over the Cariboo Road, the famous road of the "days of gold" of fifty years ago, from Ashcroft to 150-mile House, Quesnel, Barkerville, Prince George and Fort Fraser, and from Lytton to on past Clinton.

This route will eventually form a portion of the International Pacific Highway on its way to Dawson. It is now possible for the motor tourist to drive as far north of Seattle as California is south, while pathfinding cars have blazed the way many miles further, though under conditions entirely too strenuous to appeal to the average pleasure tourist.

Cascade, at the outlet of Christina Lake, is the eastern limit of the foregoing portion of the British Columbia road system. A short detour into Washington is necessary in order to reach Rossland, Trail, Nelson and the Kootenay Lake district. The road system of this area is entirely separate from the remainder of the province, but from the roads of this territory are to be enjoyed some of the finest river, lake and mountain scenery to be found in the whole of British Columbia.

Kootenay Lake is a magnificent body of water, and the citizens of Nelson, situated on the West Arm of the lake, are famed for their love of aquatics and all water sports. Probably there are few places of the same size where there are so many motor boats and other pleasure craft.

From Nelson, proceeding east, the tourist may take his choice of another detour "across the line," or he may ferry down the lake to Kootenay Landing.

Canyon at Groman Creek, near Nelson

A few miles southerly from Kootenay and easterly along the Canadian Highway route, the roadway enters the East Kootenay district, which is the most easterly division of British Columbia. Creston, Cranbrook, Fernie and other points are passed on the Canadian Highway, crossing the Rocky Mountains and entering the Province of Alberta through the Crow's Nest Pass. British Columbia is a land of superlatives for the motorist, and every section has a distinct and different charm. East Kootenay is no exception to this, for from "49" up through the middle of the district, all the way along the banks of the Upper Columbia River to Golden, stretches a highway from which vista after vista of magnificent snow-capped peaks are discerned. Space does not permit much attempt at scenic description, but the reader's imagination may gain some conception of the scenic delights of this region by realizing that this valley is located practically upon the backbone of the continent, and that the great mountains to the west are the Selkirk Range, and those, even nearer, to the east are the Rocky Mountains.

One of the most beautiful of the many wondrous features of East Kootenay is the Windermere Valley. This is the point from which a roadway is being constructed through Sinclair Pass, over the "Great Divide," to Canada's National Park at Banff.

With such tours available in British Columbia the motor tourist should plan to make his summer outing as extended as possible, for no matter how long the time limit allowed may be, it will be found far too short to enjoy all that British Columbia offers the motorist.

Alberni, Vancouver Island

When the visitor arrives in the Alberni Valley he realizes what the feelings of the poet, Tom Moore, were when he viewed the Vale of Avoca, in County Wicklow, where the waters of the Avon and Avoca meet, and the poet exclaims: "There is not in the wide world a valley so sweet."

Here is a valley where the heart of man can find supreme satisfaction, if he is not wedded to the gridiron-patterned city of cement and brick, with its accompanying discordance of street sounds, its senseless rush and hurry, its poor-rich people with their half-scared, care-marked faces.

Alberni, then, must be considered first as a district, and now for a summary of this truly wonderful area:

The Alberni Valley is about 25 miles long and an average of about 4 miles wide. This is practically all capable of being turned to agricultural account. Today, the bulk of it is covered with one of the grandest stands of timber that North America can show. Here is where the giant firs and cedars form a reserve of wealth that ensures activity for thousands of people for many years to come.

Down this wonderland flows the Somass

CUTS
ANGELL ENGRAVING Co.

VANCOUVER

River, which, before reaching the sea at the end of the valley, is strengthened in volume by the waters of the Stamp and Ash Rivers, and flows on through some of the most enchanting beauty spots that form the ideal homesites of this district.

The climate is mild; all kinds of fruit, such as apples, pears, cherries, plums, strawberries, peaches, raspberries, and all that a mild, temperate area can produce.

There are mountains which are a perpetual charm to the eye; lakes 20 miles long and alive with fish, as are also the rivers and the sea, which touches the south end of the valley and gives a fine harbour for shipping of any dimensions that may call here.

So we have mountains, valleys, lakes, woods, fruit, fish, game in abundance, mild climate, minerals (coal has been found in the valley), the sea—in short, all that is necessary to the mind and body of mankind.

This valley will have a prosperous future. The wheels of prosperity are already humming.

At the south end of the Alberni Valley are the twin cities of Alberni and Port Alberni, which adjoin and form practically one, being divided merely for municipal purposes.

In these towns will be found up-to-date stores, sawmills, churches, schools (including high school), hospital, and all essentials to modern requirements. A branch of the C. P. R. serves the valley and the two towns, and gives regular service to Victoria, Nanaimo, Vancouver, and all points on the C. P. R. system. Besides rail communication, a steamship service connects with Victoria and the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Population, 850.

(Signed) A. H. Blakemore.

Armstrong

The City of Armstrong, incorporated in the year 1913, is situated in the northern end of the famous Okanagan Valley, on the branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway running between Sicamous, at the north, and Okanagan Landing, at the head of the lake of that name.

The city is the centre of a very large and prosperous agricultural district, justly famed for its fruit and vegetables, as well as its dairy products, there being a modern, up-to-date creamery, which is well supported by the dairymen, as well as two exchanges, one of which is managed by the growers on the co-operative principle, which are able to handle all the produce to the best advantage. Armstrong being outside of the dry belt is not dependent on any expensive system of irrigation, and as a result the flavor of its fruit always wins it a first place in all competitions.

The celery produced in the bottom lands is said to be the finest in the world.

From the sportsman's point of view this district may be said to be a veritable hunters' paradise, there being an abundance of game of all descriptions.

The scenery can hardly be surpassed, and the climate should suit the most fastidious. The bright summer days are always tempered by cool nights, and the winter is bright, dry, and free from wind.

The city owns its electric light and waterworks. Estimated population inside corporate limits, 1,000.

GOOD PRINTING need not necessarily cost very much more than bad printing. Actually, it never costs as much. And this is for the simple reason that what you pay for, that produces what you have to have, is cheap; and no matter how cheap anything is, it is dear at any price if it doesn't exactly serve the purpose.

Every job of printing is worth a little discussion, or a great deal of it. Here, ink is everything; there, the paper; there, again, the engravings or typographical arrangement or style. But it's always the brains that somebody must put into the job, if it is to be a real job, and not an imitation.

CRANBROOK BRITISH COLUMBIA

a city of about 3,000 population, has a gravity water system, owned by the city, sewerage, and electric light and power day and night. The electric light and power plant is owned by a private company, the Cranbrook Electric Light Co. Limited. Here also are located the head offices of the Kootenay Telephone Lines, Limited, which system links up the district with the telephone systems of Alberta, British Columbia, Washington and Idaho.

The city is pleasantly situated in the valley of the Kootenay River, which lies between the Rocky and Selkirk ranges. It is surrounded by an excellent farming district, which is tributary to the city and which will eventually alone guarantee the continued prosperity of the city. It is a divisional point of the C. P. R., being situated on the main line of the Crow's Nest branch. From Cranbrook a branch line of the C. P. R. runs to Kimberley, 19 miles north, a mining town whose output of silver-lead ore is the greatest on the continent and possibly is, at the present time, the greatest in the world. This branch also touches Wycliffe, 9 miles from Cranbrook, where are situated the sawmills of the Otis-Staples Lumber Co. Ltd. Another branch of the C. P. R. runs from Cranbrook to Golden, making connection between the Crow branch and the main line, and tapping the rich valley of the Columbia River. This line passes through the old mining town of Fort Steele, 11 miles from Cranbrook, which in earlier days added millions in coarse gold to the wealth of the country and is still augmenting it by a considerable output of fine gold from the washings of the rich tailings of former days. Wardner and Bull River, both mill towns, are served by this branch, and are within convenient distance of Cranbrook to insure that city getting the largest share of their business. To the west of Cranbrook, on the main Crow line, is the town of Wattsburg, 7 miles distant, where the mills of the Wattsburg Lumber Co. are located. Between Wattsburg and Cranbrook, 4 miles from the latter, is one of the mills of the East Kootenay Lumber Co.

The country adjacent to Cranbrook has been exploited as a fruit-growing district, but this has proved to have been a mistake and was never concurred in by the people of the district. It has been demonstrated, however, that it is one of the best mixed farming districts in the province, as the farms of the Beattle-Murphy Co., Peter Woods, the St. Eugene Mission, Fred Clarke, Norman McLure, Harry Edwards and various others amply testify. The range for cattle and horses is practically unlimited and furnishes an abundance of grass and water. Sheep-raising in this part is only in its infancy, but is proving a successful and profitable industry.

The soil of the district is a rich loam and is especially fitted for wheat, oats and potato growing, as well as other vegetables analagous to the latter. The wheat grades No. 1, and grown without irrigation, is a superior grade for milling. The oats are big, well-filled grains and are in great demand on the home market. The potato crop has been grown in a haphazard kind of way, with, as a rule, very little attention to seed. As a consequence, while the yield is large the quality, for competitive market, has not been good enough to secure the best results. This has been demonstrated in the cases of those who have had the best experience in the growing of potatoes and who have carefully selected their seed. Their returns have amply justified the extra care exercised. This matter has been actively taken up by the Farmers' Institute and an educative campaign inaugurated, which will greatly benefit the potato grower.

GOOD PRINTING need not necessarily cost very much more than bad printing. Actually, it never costs as much. And this is for the simple reason that what you pay for, that produces what you have to have, is cheap; and no matter how cheap anything is, it is dear at any price if it doesn't exactly serve the purpose.

The scenery of this district is magnificent and of great variety, ranging from the grandeur of the Rockies and Selkirks, where God has manifested His creative power, to the well-trimmed lawns and garden nooks where man, assisted by Nature, has exercised his ingenuity. The roads are good, and radiate in all directions from the city. There are over one hundred automobiles in Cranbrook, and a live Automobile Club.

The hunting and fishing are magnificent and are carefully preserved and encouraged by the Rod and Gun Club. Premier Lake, which was stocked with salmon fry in August, 1915, is now furnishing rare sport, with fish ranging from 9 to 14 pounds in weight.

With its mild climate, good scenery, fishing and hunting, this is a rare paradise for the sportsman, while the development of the business interests and the greater development which is looked for in the future, when the water-powers, iron ore deposits, gypsum, silver-lead and other riches are exploited, will make the Cranbrook district a safe one to tie to.

Every job of printing is worth a little discussion, or a great deal of it. Here, ink is everything; there, the paper; there, again, the engravings or typographical arrangement or style. But it's always the brains that somebody must put into the job, if it is to be a real job, and not an imitation.

Mr. Businessman:

You and the Okanagan—

See the Connection?

"THE OKANAGAN COMMONER" is the amalgamation of the "Enderby Press" and the "Armstrong Advertiser."
"THE COMMONER" covers a very progressive field. We can give you the combined circulation of these old-established weeklies—covering a wide territory of prosperous farmers, dairymen, poultrymen, field truck and fruit-growers and lumbermen.

YOU CAN'T FIND A BETTER DISTRICT AND YOU CAN'T FIND A BETTER MEDIUM THAN "THE COMMONER" TO GET INTO THE HOMES OF THAT DISTRICT—if you have an article the people want.

Endako River, 30 miles long, flows from Burns Lake into Fraser Lake, Omineca district.

Enderby

is an incorporated city on the S. & O. branch of the C. P. Railway, 23 miles from Sicamous Junction, 28 miles from Okanagan Landing, 15 miles by good automobile road from main C. P. R. line at Salmon Arm. Altitude 1165 feet. Incorporated area 655 acres. Estimated population within corporate limits 800, beyond limits, in surrounding district (estimated) 1,000, or, in all, about 1,800. Town is charmingly situated among low, green hills, at the head of navigation on the beautiful Shuswap River at a spot where several tributary valleys converge, and which seems to be marked out by nature herself for a distributing, industrial and social centre. The principal industry, at present, is lumbering. The saw mills have an annual capacity of 50 million feet, daily loading capacity of 300,000 feet. There is a good hotel, excellent stores carrying all the usual lines of merchandise, bank (Montreal), brickyard, livery stable, garage, printing and newspaper office (publishing The Okanagan Commoner, serving the Enderby, Armstrong and adjoining districts), cottage hospital, opera house, modern school house (cost $60,000.00) with graded and high school departments and agricultural instructor, four churches, masonic and other lodges, two daily trains, electric light, local and long-distance telephone, municipal water supply. Coal of superior quality has been found in the vicinity, and is believed by experts to exist in considerable quantity. Mabel Lake, a large body of water, lies about 20 miles east of the town. This lake affords extraordinarily good fishing, and its beaches form a favourite playground for the people of Enderby, many persons going there by motor car for week-end trips and camping there for longer periods during the summer months. The lake discharges its enormous volume of water through a narrow channel, having a fall of about 70 (seventy) feet. The stream at this point is known as "The Skookumchuck," and is believed to be capable of developing many thousands of horse-power if harnessed up for hydro-electric purposes. District excellent for mixed farming; ample rainfall, no irrigation needed. Enderby apples won Banksian Silver Medal at Royal Horticultural Show, London, England, year 1910.

GRANBY JUNCTION

a station on C. P. R. and G. N. R. for freight only, one mile from Grand Forks. Here is located the Granby Smelter, producing blister copper and large quantities of gold and silver. See directory listings under Grand Forks.

Grand Forks

is a charmingly situated city, built at the junction of the main Kettle River with the North Fork, in a wide valley surrounded by beautiful mountains.

Grand Forks has many substantial business blocks embracing all lines of business, splendid educational facilities comprising High and Public schools with a staff of thirteen teachers, fine public buildings, churches of five denominations, a good water supply, electric light, etc. The Granby Smelter, the largest copper smelter in the British Empire, is located here. The other industries include: Box factory, planing mill, iron works, the Canadian Pacific, Great Northern and Kettle Valley Railways. This spells prosperity, not only for Grand Forks but for the entire surrounding district.

Another asset that has been bestowed on the Kettle Valley with a lavish hand is almost unlimited hydro-electric power, only part of which is now utilised. Many other power sites can be developed on the many streams as needed and this, with the splendid transportation and abundant raw material, will undoubtedly attract manufacturers.

Mother Nature has planted over the district a splendid growth of very valuable timber and immense quantities of pulp timber await the establishment of a pulp mill.

All kinds of delicious fruits, potatoes and all other vegetables, alfalfa, timothy, all kinds of grain, are grown successfully and profitably. The mild winters are conducive to the raising of stock, for the mild winters mean but little feeding during the winter months and no stabling is necessary for range stocks.

The climatic conditions in the Kettle Valley are excellent—no deep snow, no blizzards and no extreme cold in winter. The middle part of the summer is warm and dry with cool nights. Being at an altitude of 1,740 feet above sea level and between the Rockies and the Coast Ranges, it does not get the excessive rains of the Coast districts nor the extreme lack of moisture of the dry belts, and for an all-year climate few places are its equal and fewer still its superior.

A splendid system of macadamized roads have been laid out in the valley, being on the main coast to coast automobile highway.

Grand Forks is served by the C. P. R. Nelson-Vancouver line, and the Great Northern Railway. It has Anglican, Presbyterian, Methodist and Roman Catholic churches.

GOOD PRINTING need not necessarily cost very much more than bad printing. Actually, it never costs as much. And this is for the simple reason that what you pay for, that produces what you have to have, is cheap; and no matter how cheap anything is, it is dear at any price if it doesn't exactly serve the purpose.

Kamloops

situate at the junction of the waters of the North Thompson and the Thompson Rivers and in the heart of the so-called "Dry Belt," is the commercial and administrative centre of the most fully developed portion of the interior of British Columbia.

The first settlement took place when the Hudson's Bay Company established a post near the present site of the City in 1813, and from this small beginning the town steadily grew from a trading post through the various stages of business and social existence until it is now a thriving town of about 5,000 population, with all the necessities and many of the luxuries of a city of five times the size.

As the centre of a large and fertile agricultural section the prosperity of the city depends to a large extent on the farming population surrounding it, and as this population is steadily increasing as settlement extends and more land is brought under irrigation, Kamloops has an enviable future in store. Situate as it is in the centre of the bunch-grass range country, the cattle industry has for years held the lead as the local industry, but it is gradually giving place to mixed farming.

The district is also rich in mineral wealth, the potentialities of which are only beginning to be realized and the stores of gold, silver, lead and copper which are known to exist will ultimately provide an important portion of the city's business.

Kamloops owns and operates its own public utilities and at a cost of about $500,000 has installed a hydro-electric plant at the Barriere River, which furnishes power and light to the city and to mines and ranches in the neighborhood. Power at low rates is available for manufactories.

Kamloops is located on two transcontinental railways, the C. P. R. and the C. N. R., and these offer the best of transportation facilities.

The city has five chartered banks and two express companies to facilitate the transaction of business.

It is the headquarters for the Government Agent, Gold Commissioner, District Mining Engineer, District Works Engineer, Water Branch Engineer and District Forester, District Agriculturist and other officials of the Provincial Government Service, while it has Customs and Inland Revenue Officers, Dominion Lands Agent, Superintendent of Dominion Forests, Dominion Hydrometric Survey, and Indian Agent representing the Dominion Government.

The city has over 9 miles of cement walks and several miles of boulevards, while several of the principal streets have standard cluster lights.

There is a fully equipped modern hospital of 100 beds and an isolation hospital for infectious cases.

The city has two modern public school buildings and a High School, besides two private schools.

All the principal religious denominations are represented and the various fraternal orders have large memberships.

Population, 3,000. Local resources: Fruit and vegetable-growing, packing and shipping and dairying.

LAND VALUES

Nature of Soil. All varieties, from sandy to clay loam.

Price of Farm Lands. Good lands under irrigation vary in price according to location and quality from $100.00 to $300.00 per acre.

Fruit Lands. Ready to plant, about $200.00 per acre.

Range Lands. From $5.00 to $20.00 per acre.

Young Orchards. From 2 to 5 years old, without buildings, $200.00 to $400.00 per acre.

Bearing Orchards. $400.00 to $1,000.00 per acre.

IRRIGATION

Method of Irrigating. Water is carried from main canals in ditches, flumes or pipes, and conducted along rows of trees or vegetables in ploughed furrows. Hay and alfalfa are irrigated by flooding.

Cost of Irrigating Water. $1.00 to $5.00 per acre.

Irrigation Season. Extends from May to September. Fruit trees, according to age, require two to four waterings per summer. Vegetables, governed by the season, from three to four times. Hay and alfalfa in May, and again after each crop.

local market, the demand exceeding the supply.

Dairy Products. Principally butter, are exported in considerable quantites, in addition to supplying the local demand.

Gross returns from all crops at present approximate $1,500,000.00 per annum.

MARKET

Besides the extensive market of the prairie provinces, an increasing amount of fruit is annually being shipped through the port of Vancouver to Australia, New Zealand and foreign countries. A local evaporator takes care of the small apple culls. Vegetables find their chief market on the prairies. A considerable quantity is also purchased by the local canneries and evaporators.

TRANSPORTATION

This is furnished by the Canadian Pacific Railway, via Sicamous, on the main line, and at Penticton with the Kettle Valley Railway. Cars are loaded at the packing houses and transferred by barge to the railway at either end of the lake and thence to their destination. Fast freight boats are provided for perishable fruits, and express shipments are carried by the passenger steamer.

OPPORTUNITIES

Under recent abnormal conditions, it is impracticable to detail the opportunities which exist here for favorable investment or employment, but no hesitation is felt in recommending investment or settlement in the town or district.

KELOWNA

Has a population in town and district estimated at 5,000.

Is about 20 hours from Vancouver, and 96 hours from Montreal.

Has its own water, light, power and sewerage system.

Has many miles of interesting drives.

Has a telephone system with rural and long distance connections.

Has a number of shipping organizations, facilitating sale of fruit and produce.

Has three banks, mercantile houses of all classes, two newspapers, five churches, three schools with 16 teachers, and all the prominent fraternal organizations.

Rates. Water for domestic purposes, $1.20 per month per 4,000 gallons. Light, 12 cents per K.W. hour. Power, 9 cents per K.W. hour. Taxes, based on land only, 27 mills. Rents range from $8.00 to $25.00 per month. Residential lots sell at prices ranging from $50.00 to $500.00.

REASONS WHY KELOWNA IS A DESIRABLE PLACE TO LIVE

Spring opens early in March; good weather prevails until October, the cold weather usually beginning late in December. Winters for the most part are clear and bright and not severe.

Healthy climate; long, dry summers; short, bracing winters; good motor roads; attractive scenery; splendid bathing; boating; good fishing; good hunting; excellent schools; reasonable rents and rates; good class of people.

Ladysmith

This City, incorporated in 1904, is situated on Oyster Harbour, 16 miles south of Nanaimo, and 60 north of Victoria. It is the shipping port of the Extension Mines, Granby Co., and most of the miners reside here. There are extensive wharves specially fitted for coaling steamers, and from this city the E. & N. Ry. ferry their freight cars across the Straits to Vancouver, 45 miles. The Ladysmith smelter is operating, smelting custom ores from the extensive copper and gold deposits in the vicinity. Has good deep-water harbour. All retail stores close Thursday afternoons.

The name of Ladysmith is inextricably associated with the South African War. It was during the South African War that the city came into existence, and to the transient the nomenclature at once bespeaks the connection. Warren Street, Symons Street, Roberts Street, Baden-Powell Street, and others named after the famous generals of the South African War.

Ladysmith is the home of the employees of the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Limited. The town was founded by the Honourable James Dunsmuir with the object in view of providing good and healthy homes for his men, and at the same time having a port for the shipment of his coal. The city was incorporated in 1904, owns its own electric light and sewerage plants, and has a very small municipal debt. It has good schools, as well as a high school, and churches of all denominations. It is on the Island Highway, and on the E. & N. Railway, and has probably the best harbour on the Coast, next to Vancouver, large freighters being able to coal at the wharves at any stage of the tide. All the freight for Vancouver Island is landed by barges at Ladysmith. There are a large number of beautiful farms in close proximity to the city. For particulars, write Secretary, Board of Trade. City population, 3,500. Local resources: Coal mining.

GOOD PRINTING need not necessarily cost very much more than bad printing. Actually, it never costs as much. And this is for the simple reason that what you pay for, that produces what you have to have, is cheap; and no matter how cheap anything is, it is dear at any price if it doesn't exactly serve the purpose.

Every job of printing is worth a little discussion, or a great deal of it. Here, ink is everything; there, the paper; there, again, the engravings or typographical arrangement or style. But it's always the brains that somebody must put into the job, if it is to be a real job, and not an imitation.

Nanaimo

the coal city and distributing centre of Vancouver Island. Nanaimo, known throughout the length and breadth of the Pacific Coast as "The Coal City" is located on the eastern shores of Vancouver Island, distant some seventy-two miles from Victoria and thirty-eight miles from Vancouver, being connected with the former by the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway operating a double daily train service, and with the latter by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's S. S. Princess Patricia, the fastest passenger and freight steamer on the Pacific Coast which during the summer months operates a double daily run between the two cities.

In regard to population Nanaimo ranks fourth among the cities of British Columbia. Founded in the year 1854 by settlers direct from England, and incorporated in 1875, it is one of the oldest cities in the province, the census of 1911 giving it a population of 8,240, the estimated population of the city and immediate vicinity at the present writing being placed at upwards of 10,000, the increase keeping pace with the slow but steady and permanent development of the district. Situated as it is in the geographical center of Vancouver Island and the nearest point on the Island to Vancouver, the metropolis of the province, Nanaimo is by nature the distributing centre for the whole of Vancouver Island, being connected with Victoria, Duncan, Chemainus and Ladysmith to the south, Alberni and Port Alberni to the west, and Union Bay, Courtenay, Comox and Cumberland to the north by the E. & N. Railway, and also having connection both to the north and south by steamers which make connections at all principal points on the Gulf Islands. In the realm of trade and commerce, Nanaimo has big advantages over any port on the east coast of the Island and is the real key to the Island trade, being the most direct port of entry from the terminus of the C. P. R. at Vancouver, and with the unfolding of the mineral resources of the interior and the extension of the railway system to the northern end of the Island the city of Nanaimo will undoubtedly be established as the permanent distributing centre for the whole Island and command a very large volume of trade in all merchantable commodities.

Nanaimo has within its borders industries not found in cities many times greater in population, some of minor importance, but others capable of much development and giving promise of attaining large proportions. It is in the development of these minor industries that the city is expecting to reach beyond the term so often applied to it of "The Coal City"—not that the extensive and valuable coal mines in the vicinity will not add to Nanaimo's wealth and importance—but it is realized by the citizens that Nanaimo is much more than a coal mining centre, the greatest in the province. It is the outlet for the immense rich iron ore deposits of the Island and the logical site of iron ore smelters and steel manufacturing plants. The Nanaimo coal area is the largest in the province and is estimated at 350 square miles, the city being the centre of operations which during the year 1917 caused an output of 1,187,-764 tons of the best quality of coal mined on the Pacific Coast, employing upwards of 3,000 hands and furnishing a monthly payroll of over $300,000. Such a large amount of cash being put in circulation each month must of necessity bring about prosperous conditions, and this is why Nanaimo subscribed half a million of dollars to Canada's Victory Loan, that 65 per cent. of the working class of the city own their own homes, and the banks of the city show savings deposits aggregating an amount that excites the wonder of the visitor to the city.

While the output of the district mines for the past year totalled upwards of a million tons, this amount will be exceeded during the current twelve months, for not only are all the old mines working to capacity but new seams are being rapidly opened up, the Granby Consolidated Company being engaged at the present time in developing a virgin field at Cassidy's, at an initial expenditure of a million dollars, with an expected output within six months of a thousand tons daily, the Western Fuel Company opening a new mine within a mile of the city limits and the Canadian Collieries having commenced to ship coal from its new property at South Wellington, but three miles from the city.

While one of the oldest cities in the province it is only in recent years that Nanaimo awoke from its lethargy, since which time it has paved its business streets, constructed fifteen miles of cement sidewalks, expended upwards of $300,000 on a municipal owned water system which during the past year produced a revenue of $40,-000, and installed a sewerage system to within 25 per cent. of completion. During the past three years the city has also installed modern fire fighting equipment in the form of motor trucks, chemicals, hook and ladder trucks, etc., with the result that the city's annual fire loss has been reduced to a minimum and compares favorably with that of any city in the province. Educational facilities of the city are also of the very best, the expenditure in this connection last year being $39,000 which provided for the maintenance of six schools, including a High School and Business College, with an enrollment of 1,200 scholars and a large staff of efficient teachers, while the city's financial institutions include the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Royal Bank and Merchants Bank of Canada, the pioneer banking institution of the city being the Canadian Bank of Commerce, located in a substantial brick structure with well furnished and commodious offices.

In the brief space allotted Nanaimo in this publication full justice cannot be given the many advantages possessed by the city and district and its possibilities regarding its fisheries, lumbering, farming, fruit-growing and poultry raising. Its fisheries and lumber wealth are second only in importance to its mining, and while the district has not the number of acres under cultivation that some sections of the Island can boast of, the fertility of its soil has produced some record crops, notably the 550-acre farm at Wakesiah Park, owned and operated by the Western Fuel Company, the exhibit of which farm alone comprises a large section of the annual exhibition of the Nanaimo Agricultural Society. At a recent exhibition oats shown were part of a phenomenal crop in which five acres yielded 142 and a half bushels to the acre, and 32 acres gave 102 bushels, 10 pounds to the acre. The yield of barley was 55 pounds per measured bushel, peas 68 1-2, oats 48, and wheat 68. A dairy is also operated in connection with this farm, the prize cow being one that during twelve months gave 9,614 pounds, or nearly five tons of milk, which was 390 pounds of butter fat, producing 331 pounds of butter. Other cows in the herd are also of a high standard so that taking every phase of farming into consideration the showing of the Wakesiah farm is an important factor in bringing to the attention of the outside world possibilities of the district as an agricultural centre.

Nanaimo has exceptional advantages to offer as a suitable site for the establishment of certain industries, notably those requiring water frontage. As a shipbuilding centre it is unexcelled, possesing as it does in the long open reaches of the harbor, together with those of Departure Bay, some seven miles of the finest inclosed water on the Coast, capable of carrying ships of the greatest draught and capacity, Nanaimo's export tonnage at the present time being the second largest in Canada, being exceeded by that of Montreal alone.

at the convergence of three lake systems, it is the travel clearing house of the Crow's Nest Pass scenic route. Eight rail and steamer routes give command of every section of the Kootenay, and with fishing, hunting, boating, motoring and excellent hotel accommodations make the city the interior tourist capital of British Columbia. Travellers to the Pacific coast should not fail to utilize the Crow's Nest Pass route one way and see that their tickets provide for this.

Nelson, as a residential city, challenges the world. A climate that is an elixir, lakes open the year round, all varieties of wild sport, all temperate fruits, electric cars, electric light, artificial gas, mountain water, sewerage, advanced schools, daily press, a progressive population, make of Nelson an Arcadia. Nelson is the premier city of a sisterhood of progressive towns. It has a population of 6,500.

The wholesale trade of the East and West Kootenay and adjacent territory is done from Nelson and forms, perhaps, the most important item of its steadily increasing business, covering as it does, a very large district, the importance of which is second to none in the Province. There are many excellent retail stores, several of which would do credit to a large city.

Many industries are represented in Nelson. Among them a jam factory, iron works, motor boat factories, sash and door factory, brewery, sawmills and lumber yards, engineering works, shingle mills, planing mills, marble works, granite quarries, complex ore reduction plant, mineral waterworks, a mattress and upholstering factory, a C. P. R. shipyard, etc, etc. In the district contiguous to Nelson are approximately 100 sawmills.

Its strategic location makes it the focal point of the West Kootenay, Slocan and Boundary lode mining, and of the very extensive lumbering carried on. It is the banking, judicial, wholesale and manufacturing centre and is situated in the heart of the fruit region. It offers unlimited hydro electric power development, is the third city in population in British Columbia, and must always remain the business capital of this rich and fast settling territory.

Nelson has all the attractions of a modern up-to-date city. It has municipal owned electric street car system, gas works and electric light and power plant. It has hospitals, public buildings and educational institutions, and is one of the most prosperous communities in British Columbia.

The city's bonded indebtedness is $803,364.00. Against this it has in cash, its own repurchased debentures and war bonds, $316,951.00. These public utilities, which are revenue producing, are valued at $576,230.00. After being charged with interest and proportion of sinking fund for the debentures, they earned, last year, $28,667.00. As the debentures mature in from four to fifteen years, by that time these public utilities will be paid and the income from them, upon the existing basis, will equal the present taxation of the city.

GLORIOUS KOOTENAY

The name of Kootenay has long been familiar to the mining and lumbering world of America. No other district on earth has more extensive, more varied or richer mineral deposits. Every valley and mountain side is a storehouse of valuable timber.

But Kootenay now appeals to the world with another title. Fortunes are still to be made by extracting her precious metals from the earth and hewing the trees from her hillsides. It has another treasure to offer. In the fertile valleys that girdle every lake and border every stream is the richest fruit land of the continent. Kootenay apples, pears, cherries and strawberries are the marvel of the London and other markets to which all countries have long been sending their best.

The shores of Kootenay lakes and rivers are now lined with smiling orchards.

Bee-keeping is also attracting much attention and those engaged in it report most gratifying results. There is a great future here for that industry.

The district abounds in facilities for all kinds of sport. Fishing—the whole lake district, mountain streams and smaller lakes abound in fish (rainbow trout, brook trout, etc.) The salmon in Kootenay Lake can give fishermen the best day's sport obtainable anywhere. Small game is plentiful in the immediate vicinity. Deer, goat, mountain sheep, caribou, grouse and wild ducks can be had within easy distance from the city. In more extended trips, black, brown and grizzly bear.

Nelson has an up-to-date Board of Trade, which is fully alive to its opportunities. Inquiries addressed to its Secretary regarding the city or district are invited and will have prompt attention.

New Westminster

The industrial port and fresh water harbour of the Pacific, and the market and distributing centre of the fertile Fraser Valley.

A flourishing industrial city, the centre of the lumber manufacturing industry of the Coast section of British Columbia, and possessing exceptional manufacturing advantages and superior transportation facilities.

Its situation on the Fraser River, fifteen miles from the Gulf of Georgia, with a fresh water harbour of over half a mile in width, and with safe anchorage of a depth of 30 to 40 feet at its wharves, served by five steam railways and one electric railway system, which traverses the whole of the south side of the Fraser Valley for sixty-five miles, one of the most fertile agricultural areas in the world, gives it a commanding position as a trading community, industrially flourishing and destined to expand as the resources of the province, natural and acquired, are developed.

The population numbers 15,000. Nearly twenty per cent. are employed in productive industry, a larger percentage than in any other city of Western Canada. The yearly output of the factories (including Fraser Mills, an adjoining industrial suburb, where is situated the immense lumber manufacturing plant of the Canadian Western Lumber Company) aggregates $10,000,000, and the annual payroll is over $3,000,000.

The city owns and operates the public utilities of electric light, power and water. Its municipally owned docks, extending along the harbour front, which have been lately improved by the expenditure of $500,000, and which are leased at moderate rentals, give opportunities for waterfront industrial operations and shipping development, and amply provide facilities to meet the needs of increasing coast-wise and sea-borne traffic.

New Westminster's fishing industry has an importance almost equal to its lumber manufacturing. The salmon fishing, both above as well as below the city, largely centres in the city. The office of the superintendent of Dominion Fisheries for the province is located here, from which the licences are issued to thousands of river fishermen. The outfitting of the salmon fishing fleet adds to the business activity of the city, and it is estimated, according to Board of Trade reports, that the sum of over two million dollars was paid out to fishermen on the Fraser River in 1917.

New Westminster has been active in wartime shipbuilding. Four wooden vessels have been built and launched from the Poplar Island Shipyards for the Imperial Munitions Board, by the New Westminster Construction & Engineering Company. Over 600 men were employed at the yards, and one month the payroll ran up to $80,000. River craft and immense scows for aeroplane spruce shipping have been constructed in other local yards, while the outfitting of several of the I. M. B. ships has been undertaken at the city-owned wharves, the site for an assembly plant being granted by the City Council without rental.

The Westminster Construction & Engineering Company have secured the contract for building four wooden vessels for the French Government. Each of these is of the 1500 tons deadweight capacity. The construction of these four ships during 1918 and 1919 will stimulate and support mercantile activity in the city, substantially improve realty conditions and lay more solidly the foundations for a local shipbuilding industry which will, it is confidently hoped, continue and expand after the war, since New Westminster possesses unequalled facilities in situation, extensive lumber mills and machine and foundry plants to make successful and profitable the building of either wooden or steel ships.

The four wooden vessels to be constructed in 1918-1919 will be equipped by the New Westminster Construction & Engineering Company at an assembly plant, which will be operated on the site prepared for a new market, at the foot of Tenth street. Free use of this valuable waterfrontage has been granted the shipbuilding company for a year. The company expects to secure the contract for equipping other vessels under construction in the district. A large number of skilled mechanics at high wages will be employed for a year, thus adding to the prosperity of the city.

New Westminster is governed under the Municipal Act of British Columbia, having for its administrative body a mayor and seven aldermen, elected at large under the proportional representation voting system (first held in January, 1918). The mayor and aldermen receive monthly indemnities. The land only is taxed, improvements being exempt. The city owns its own water system, electric light plant, harbour waterfrontage, large park areas, and the Fair buildings of the Royal Agricultural and Industrial Society. The citizens have also the convenience of a gas supply for domestic and industrial uses, the product of a gas plant owned and operated by Mr. James Cunningham. It conducts a weekly market, handling the produce of the Fraser Valley, and facilitating the exchange of farm products from the producer direct to the consumer. Its Carnegie Public Library is conducted free for the citizens, being supported entirely from the city treasury.

FRESH WATER HARBOUR AND SHIP CHANNEL

Not only has New Westminster met its immediate harbour needs by the construction of new docks at a cost of half a million dollars, but it has evolved plans for a larger harbour project, which, when completed, will involve an expenditure of five million dollars. The larger port scheme provides for a waterway about three and a half miles in length, lying between the extreme easterly end of Lulu Island and Annacis Island, which are situated to the west of the city on the Fraser River.

This waterway will have on its south side a straight quay extending its whole length, while on the north side there are planned a series of slips, six hundred feet wide and eight hundred feet long. Back of these slips will run a two hundred and fifty-two-foot thoroughfare, while on the south side a similar street will be provided. The responsibility for this port development will devolve on a Harbour Commission, which consists of two commissioners appointed by the Dominion Government and one appointed by the city. The commission has complete control and regulation of the harbour and its traffic from the Pitt River above the city to Steveston at the mouth.

The ship channel to the sea is being improved by the Dominion Government. Two-thirds of the jetty on the north side of the main channel at the Sandheads, at the mouth of the Fraser, has been completed, and the Le Baron improvement scheme calls for the construction of a jetty on the south side also, which, when completed, with the straightening of the ship channel by dredging, is expected to facilitate vessels drawing thirty feet of water reaching the port of New Westminster and ensure the permanency of the waterway from the gulf. Already $1,300,000 has been expended in permanent improvements.

The North Arm of the Fraser, which debouches from the main channel just below the city, is also being improved by the construction of a jetty over the Sandheads at the mouth below Eburne, and this will particularly facilitate river transportation for industrial purposes such as log-towing. The North Arm of the Fraser is also under a harbour board, known as the North Fraser Harbour Commission.

PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION

Established in 1860.

Conducted under the auspices of the Royal Agricultural and Industrial Society of British Columbia.

"The Best in the West" is the slogan of this annual event, and the sole aim and object is to encourage and assist in every possible way the Agriculturist, the Horticulturist, the Floriculturist, the Stock-breeder and the Dairyman.

There are no profits and no distribution of dividends in its arrangements, being entirely a community development enterprise. The unparalleled success of this huge agricultural exhibition is largely due to the self-sacrificing activity and untiring energy of its executive and directorate and the loyal and ardent support and material assistance of its many faithful and esteemed patrons.

Throughout the whole arrangement of this wonderful demonstration the essential desire is to bring the producer and consumer closer together and become better acquainted with each other.

The New Westminster Provincial Exhibition grounds comprise eighty acres of land. About twenty-five of this is taken up by the Exhibition buildings, including large Industrial, Agricultural, Manufacturing, Machinery, Transportation, Horticultural, Stock and Poultry buildings, as well as modern-sized Dairy, Art and Administration buildings, together with a modern judging pavilion and horse show arena, which was erected at a cost of $50,000.00.

Several acres are arranged for stock yards, judging and exercising grounds, and the balance has been converted into a most beautiful park and athletic grounds overlooking the broad and expansive waters of the mighty Fraser and the greatest fresh water harbour on the Pacific Coast.

New Westminster is naturally very proud of the Provincial Exhibition, and as well, too, of the many thousands of visitors who demonstrate their appreciation of her achievements in this direction by attending. As these increase from year to year the management and directorate are greatly encouraged to keep ahead of the times in their endeavors through this medium to promote and foster the husbandry of agriculture and land settlement throughout British Columbia, which they consider is the best means of creating permanent prosperity in any community.

North Vancouver

a city situated on north side of Burrard Inlet, opposite Vancouver, with a population of 10,000. Has developed into a thriving centre of industry with the advent of shipbuilding and entry into the city of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway. Waterworks, electric lighting and street railway, including direct telephone connections, are among the modern public utilities, while quick ferry service, owned by the municipal corporation, serves the public efficiently. The scenic values of Capilano, Lynn and Seymour Canyons attract several hundred thousands of tourists annually, while mountain climbing is available within a few hours' walk of the city.

Winches Windlasses Steering Gears

—Our Three Specialties

Combining the most practical improvements of modern engineering science with the solid, proven principles of the standard Old Country, Clarke-Chapman type winch, our "Improved Silent Running Horizontal Steam Winch, Type 'C'," is winning international fame.

Our orders extend from yards of the Atlantic to yards of the Pacific, both in Canada and in the United States.

And we are particularly proud of our Anchor Windlasses, which we consider as near "fool proof" as it is possible to make them. The whole machine can be operated from the cylinder end, both lowering and raising and working the brakes.

GOOD PRINTING need not necessarily cost very much more than bad printing. Actually, it never costs as much. And this is for the simple reason that what you pay for, that produces what you have to have, is cheap; and no matter how cheap anything is, it is dear at any price if it doesn't exactly serve the purpose.

Parksville

a post office and station on E. & N. Railway at junction of lines to Alberni and Courtenay, 24 miles northwest of Nanaimo. Parksville is one of the older settlements on Vancouver Island, the first settlers coming by trail from Nanaimo about 45 years ago. It possesses a beautiful sheltered and sandy bay on the Straits of Georgia. Englishman's River and French Creek provide sport for the angler in due season. There is also salmon fishing (fly) in the bay in the fall. The rainfall is unusually low owing, presumably, to the absence of high hills on the shore line. There is a pleasing lack of disfiguring, blackened stumps, and green meadows and creeper-covered houses give the impression of an English village. There are Anglican and Presbyterian churches. There is a daily train service, and full telephonic communication. Situated at the junction of the celebrated Canadian and Island Auto Highways, it makes an excellent centre for tourists. Mrs. A. Hirst has long owned and successfully run the Rod & Gun Hotel in the settlement, and within the last year the new hotel, the Island Hall, has been opened on the bay, which caters to the pleasure-loving public and tourists generally. Population. 250, and district 1,000. Between 1908 and 1913 the population was more than doubled by incoming settlers. Parksville boasts an up-to-date public school, and the children's garden is one of the best in British Columbia. Government and C. P. R. telegraph offices. Local resources: Mixed farming and lumbering.

Penticton

amid beautiful and rugged mountain scenery, nestling snugly at the foot of Okanagan Lake, there lies the attractive little tourist city of Penticton. Like a gem in a desert cave, it lay hidden until the Coast Kootenay (Kettle Valley) Railway spanned the summits between Midway and Hope and placed it definitely on the map for all time to come.

In the past two years visitor after visitor has given expression to feelings of amazement that a locality with so many varied attractions should have hitherto escaped the attention of the weary business man, the sportsman in search of a new field, or the family in need of a change.

This unique little city enjoys the distinction of having the finest bathing beach in the interior of British Columbia. The water is shallow over a wide area—there are no treacherous holes—and children can bathe in perfect safety, while the bottom is pure sand and free from gravel or pebbles.

Trout is found in Okanagan Lake and in a number of smaller lakes along the Kettle Valley line, both east and west of Penticton.

The balmy, equable climate of the Southern Okanagan, the excellent motoring, the opportunity afforded for motor boating on the lake, coupled with the social and residential advantages which Penticton possesses, make it an ideal place for a holiday. The best evidence of this is found in the fact that those who come once return again and bring their friends.

Some of the finest orchards in British Columbia are found in the Penticton district. The annual production is more than three hundred carloads of all fruits, while this amount is annually increasing. At several of the leading fairs Penticton fruit has won many first prizes and gold medals. Stock-raising and lumbering are also important industries of the district.

The average rainfall is about twelve inches per year, the snowfall in winter is very light, and zero weather is almost unknown.

In recognition of its tourist possibilities, the Canadian Pacific Railway (Kettle Valley Branch) has erected a magnificent tourist hotel on the beach at Penticton at a cost, including furnishings, of more than one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. It provides accommodation for a large number of guests. There are other hotels and a number of private boarding houses which are prepared to minister to the wants of the tourist and visitor.

A golf club has recently been organized and a nine-hole course laid out. It is within easy walking distance of the heart of the town and has proved very popular.

Two public and one high school indicate that education is not neglected.

Six churches minister to the spiritual needs of the community. The business section boasts of a number of fine stores and business blocks—one of them, a large department store, having a floor space of more than twenty-four thousand square feet.

Penticton is a divisional point on the Kettle Valley Railway and the general offices of that road are located in the handsome station on the lake front. It is now only two hundred and fifty-three miles from Vancouver, and the journey to the coast only requires about twelve hours, or less than half the time required by the old Sicamous-Main Line route. To the east a connection is made with the Crow's Nest Branch at Nelson.

The citizens are active, leading members in the community, and many are engaged in fruit-growing, each holding from five to ten acres of very productive land.

There are located here at least twenty prosperous merchants, and two large department stores, two hardware stores, four grocery stores, two livery stables, two garages, two butcher shops, two bakers, etc., etc., etc. Within the municipal district there are owned at least fifty automobiles, and the town is served by the best roads in the province.

A large booklet dealing with the general opportunities of the Penticton district in more detail, will be forwarded on application to the Secretary, Board of Trade, or the Publicity Agent, Penticton, B. C.

THE PENTICTON HERALD

"COVERS THE LOWER OKANAGAN LIKE A BLANKET"

The Okanagan District in 1917 shipped 3,500 cars of fruit, valued at over $2,000,000, besides an immense quantity of lumber and about 200 carloads of cattle.

Penticton is a tourist, railway, fruit, stock-raising and lumbering centre, and is close to gold, coal and copper mines—all heavy producers.

The HERALD is the only paper in the town, and is the leading journal of the district.

With the HERALD is associated the PRINCETON STAR, the only paper published in the Similkameen, a rich mining and stock-raising district.

Every job of printing is worth a little discussion, or a great deal of it. Here, ink is everything; there, the paper; there, again, the engravings or typographical arrangement or style. But it's always the brains that somebody must put into the job, if it is to be a real job, and not an imitation.

Port Alberni

is a city municipality, incorporated in 1912, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, at the head of the Alberni Canal. It has a population of 940. It is the western terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Island division, and is situated on an excellent deep-water harbour, some 36 miles from the open ocean. The Alberni Canal is a natural fiord from two to five miles wide and extremely deep. The city has one large sawmill, cutting 120,000 feet of lumber per day, operated by the Alberni Pacific Lumber Company, Limited. This company is now extending its logging railways back of the city, and proposes to erect a second mill with a daily capacity of 200,000 feet in the near future. There are also in the city a smaller sawmill, two shingle mills, two herring packing establishments and a small shipyard. There are two first class tourist hotels, adequate retail stores, two banks, moving picture theatre and garage. There are both a High School and a Public School, and four churches—Anglican, Methodist, Presbyterian and Roman Catholic—also a hospital. First class water is available, the supply being taken from China Creek, seven miles distant. Electric light—furnished by the city—and telephone service are also obtainable. The city is a resort for motorists, being at the western end of the Canadian road system. Beautiful lakes and streams abound in the vicinity, and excellent fresh water fishing is obtainable. The city is attractively situated on a slope rising gradually from the water's edge, with magnificent views of Mount Arrowsmith, the Beaufort Mountains, and snow-capped peaks at the head of the Alberni valley. While the winters are wet, there is always a long, dry summer and fall, and the mean annual temperature is over 47 degrees—zero temperature is practically unknown.

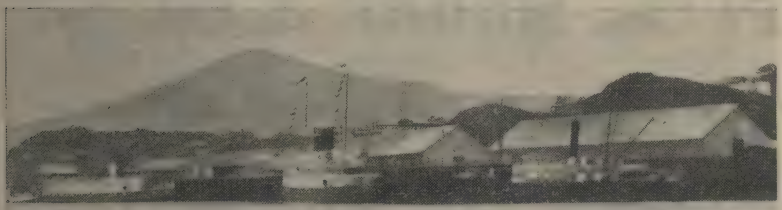
is the Pacific terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company, situated 550 miles north of Vancouver and 40 miles south of the Alaskan boundary. It is in the same latitude as London, and has a climate the mean temperature of which is about the same as that of the metropolis of the British Isles. It is 500 miles nearer the Orient than any other port on the Pacific Coast, and is two days nearer the Yukon and Alaska than any other Pacific Coast city.



PORTION OF PRINCE RUPERT'S EXCELLENT WATERFRONT

Having a tri-weekly service of fast through passenger trains from the Atlantic Coast, alternating with fast through freight service, it is the controlling factor in the Canadian Yukon and Canadian Alaska trade, as it will also be for the Orient trade in the near future.

Preparatory to this the railway company, in conjunction with the Dominion Government, have completed and are now operating the largest floating dry dock in America, covering 22 acres, at a cost of three million dollars; as well as laying out terminal facilities and trackage accommodation at a cost of two and three-quarter millions. In addition to this, they have pledged themselves under a 10-year agreement with the city, dated June 8th, 1911 (as part consideration of the city accepting $15,000.00 per year to cover all taxes), to "commence and complete within reasonable time" terminal buildings costing one and one-half millions, and an hotel to cost two millions. Already plans are complete and foundations excavated. Owing to the war conditions, superstructure of these undertakings has been temporarily held up, but we have the assurance of the president of the company that these works will be continued and carried to completion directly capital is available.

The Dominion Government have also purchased land and excavated site for a post office, to cost $250,000.00, and an armoury, to cost $150,000.00, land for which was given them by the city. They have also erected a quarantine and marine station with concrete dock, which cost $175,000.00, and the Provincial Government have also prepared site upon which to erect permanent court house and administration buildings to cost $250,000.00, part of which is in the estimates for this year. The Imperial Oil Company have also leased from the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company 8 3-4 acres of land, upon which have been erected oil storage tanks, which cost $200,000.00, and are now operating all oil shipments from the wells to Prince Rupert, thence by rail to the East. The Provincial Government have erected a concrete wharf at a cost of $270,000.00, which they are now operating.

The city has spent in developments $765,000.00 in permanently grading the whole of the business section; it has established its own light, telephone and water systems at a cost of $680,000.00, which are operated as public utilities. These are self-supporting, with the exception of part of water system, which was only completed in 1915. Part of these charges were raised by special rate. It is estimated the revenue for 1917 will provide for these interest and redemption charges, making the whole of these utilities self-supporting. The city has only $170,000.00 of non-productive debentures. The total actual indebtedness of the city is $1,777,947.73, out of which $921,608.73 are local improvements, $676,000.00 public utilities debentures, and the remainder non-productive. It will be readily seen, therefore, that the expenditure by the city is extremely small when compared with outside interests, yet the amount spent has enabled it to keep pace with other developments, as well as provide cheap light, water and telephone. The water supply is by gravity, and 1,650 H.P. of electric current is generated. At the same time, the water supply is estimated to take care of a population of from fifty to sixty thousand people, and a further power site has been secured nearby, which will generate a further 10,000 H. P. capacity for electrical supply when necessary.

The townsite contains 2,240 acres divided into 11,610 lots. The total estimated land valuation is $20,908,505.00, of which $2,309,450.00 is exempt from taxation. The total land taxable within city limits is $17,917,345.00, which includes Grand Trunk Railway Company land, valued at $3,583,500.00 upon which they pay an annual fixed amount of $15,000.00 until 1921, leaving a net assessment upon which tax levy is annually made of $11,596,295.00. The improvements are valued at $2,674,060.00, but are not taxed. In addition to this there are $359,600.00 improvements which are exempt. There is no floating debt. The total assets of this city, which include real estate and buildings, is $563,159.72, (which had a land assessment in 1915 of $1,300,925.00), also water, light and telephone, totalling $2,520,000.00. The tax rate for 1916 was 10 mills gross, which includes schools, money bylaws, special rates, and general administration. This was the lowest tax rate in Western Canada. A 10-mill rate will also be levied for the year 1917, and this despite the fact that the assessment has been reduced by two and one-half millions. The tax collection has an average of 69 per cent. for five years. Owing to a considerable portion of the townsite being held by outside capitalists of repute, a large percentage of which is improved, the city has practically a guaranteed tax collection of 60 per cent. of its annual tax levy, the remainder being made up by small holders, 10 per cent of whom are prompt taxpayers.

The city has just completed a reconstruction scheme for the whole of its debenture issues, which has now been ratified by the Provincial Legislature in its entirety. Heretofore all debentures were issued under the sinking fund plan. This has been superseded by the serial bond plan, which is made up of $106,000.00 ten years, 6 per cent.; $74,237.73 twenty years, 6 per cent.; and $1,540,000.00 thirty years, 6 per cent.; bonds, all dated April 1st, 1916. The interest is payable half-yearly, and the first instalment of principal on April 1st, 1917. In addition to the annual levies to liquidate these instalments, the government has authorized the establishment of a bond payment insurance fund, amounting to $65,000.00, to make as remote as possible default in interest or principal payments. In practice this has proven a great success, and is a splendid protection for purchasers of the city's securities, in addition to the credit of the whole city, as provided for in British Columbia statutes. As an evidence of the ability to meet the obligations promptly and with certainty, a comparison of 1914 levy and 1916 levy for local improvement and general debentures will place this beyond doubt. In the year 1914 the total amount raised for interest and redemption charges on local improvements and general debentures was $219,275.00. For local improvements, $145,643.66; for general debentures, $51,095.90; charged against utility revenues, $12,536.34. All interest payments were made promptly and sinking funds all intact. Since this, $90,490.00 short-term debentures have matured, and have been taken up, so that now the total levies for money debt, both local improvement and general debentures, is less than $150,000.00 per annum. With further development and consequent increased earning powers of the utilities, which are now apparent by the daily demand for more power, and the comparatively small outlay in developing the system, these utilities are bound to become a source of benefit to the city and district, and one may confidently look forward to the city of Prince Rupert as a city of low taxation, cheap water, light and telephone; the converging point and source of supplies for a district that will contribute wealth from great mines, inexhaustible timber limits, fertile valleys, and the world's greatest fisheries. Add to this the scenic grandeur of its inland and maritime highways, the delightful, stimulating climate, and the surrounding beauties of the mountains; all these are Prince Rupert's, the Pacific end of the All-Canadian Transcontinental Railway.

Prince Rupert's main industries are fishing and mining. She is the northern centre for both these trades, which are rapidly increasing in importance. Fish curing plants, cold storage and ice-making, machine works, boat-building, etc., are other lines followed. The fishing industry has had a remarkable growth, due to the fact that the strategic position of Prince Rupert makes the port the natural one of entry for fish products to the eastern markets, where quickness of delivery and short route are important points.

Industrial sites are available at fair rentals on the waterfront, with cheap power, light, water, etc., supplied by municipal plants. Labor is plentiful and wages are reasonable. Population, 4,000.

Princeton

an important mining town lying 2,000 feet above sea level at the junction of the Similkameen and Tulameen Rivers, 65 miles west of Penticton, 47 miles west of Keremeos, and 75 south of Nicola (from which place it is reached by auto stage), in Similkameen Provincial Electoral District. It is the centre of a coal basin of approximately 42 square miles, with four workable seams aggregating 40 feet. The coal is subbituminous and excellent for domestic and steam purposes. Is served by C. P. R. Kettle Valley line, and is the terminus of the Spokane-Princeton branch of the G. N. Railway. Has Anglican and Presbyterian churches. Population, 600. Local resources: Coal, gold and platinum mining, and ranching.

Revelstoke

with a population of 3500, lies in the beautiful Columbia River Valley surrounded by lofty and picturesque mountains, some clothed with trees and verdure to their very peaks, others crowned with rugged and rocky spires or glistening glaciers.

Situated on the main line of the C.P.Ry. 379 miles from Vancouver and 267 miles from Calgary, it is also the gateway of the Kootenay and Arrow Lake Districts—now famous as fruit-growing centres. Surrounded by vast areas of timber her lumber industries are second to none in the province.

With the completion of the Auto Scenic Road to the top of Mount Revelstoke, the beautiful River Road Driveway, extended 17 miles, and the many miles of splendid government-built roads in the district, the lover of horse or auto can enjoy them to the full. As the Government have placed Mount Revelstoke in their park reserve, this auto road leading to the top of this mountain will be a world-wide attraction to tourists.

INVESTMENTS.

The 20,000 square miles of mineral lands tributary to Revelstoke probably contain as much mineral wealth as any similar section on the American continent and its natural advantages for economical mining are surpassed by none. The principal minerals are gold, silver, lead, copper, zinc, iron, manganese, chromium, tungsten, molybdenum, aluminum, barium, mercury, arsenic, talc, antimony, sulphur, lime, etc. There are rich placers, high-grade gold ores and high-grade silver-lead ores near the surface which the prospector can work himself; large, medium to low-grade veins of gold, copper, silver-lead and zinc ores, and mica, marble and cement, clay, etc., for the capitalist; and a great field for the metallurgist and the scientist. The high mountains with their tunnel sites, the abundance of large timber for lumber, charcoal and other mining purposes; great water power at or near every mine, electricity for power, light and smelting; numerous navigable lakes and streams, together with the good roads policy and the liberal mining laws of the provincial government, form a combination which the trained mining man and the careful investor cannot afford to overlook.

MANUFACTURES

Revelstoke owns its own water, light and power systems. Since the electric light and power are developed from water power it can offer very cheap rates on these commodities to any manufacturers who will settle here. There are openings at present for pulp and paper factories, tannery, machine shop, foundry, smelter, brickyard, fruit and vegetable cannery, sugar beet factory and flour mill.

SPORTSMEN

Revelstoke being in the heart of the best hunting grounds in Canada, affords to those desirous of doing so, the opportunity of meeting the monarch of the mountains, the fearless grizzly or the silvertip bear. The elusive mountain goat will give the keenest sportsman ample opportunity to cultivate patience and endurance, while caribou and deer will repay the hunter for the task of bringing them down. Geese, ducks, partridge, ptarmigan and other wild fowl are found over the whole district. Guides and outfits can be secured here and any game desired may be reached in from two to three days.

ATTRACTIONS

To the Alpine climber there are plenty of unconquered snow-clad peaks that offer all the difficulties and dangers of the Swiss Alps. To those who wish to get a glimpse of the rugged grandeur of this sea of mountains without the danger, there is an auto road which affords this pleasure, or the mountain trail either for foot or on horseback. When the summit is reached, instead of the usual rocky splendor, there extends a level plateau for miles, so level that golf links are under contemplation with the building of the chalets.

Arrow Lakes—27 miles south of Revelstoke the Columbia River loses its identity in a chain of lakes. The C. P. R. from Revelstoke connects at Arrowhead with a palatial line of steamers, which lands the tourist in Robson in 10 hours. Arrow Lake has been likened to Lake Geneva. There are the sheer, rocky cliffs, the heavily timbered slopes, the fertile valleys with orchards and homes of the settlers dotted here and there, and in the background of it all the eternal snow-clad mountains with the glorious cloud effects at once the delight and pain of the artist.

Deutchman Caves—Three hours east of Revelstoke on the C. P. R. one can visit these wonderful caves, with their subterranean passages, their century-worn arches, their large chambers whose walls have been worn smooth by the rush of waters as they tore their ways into the heart of the mountains. Seven miles from the Caves is the Big Glacier on the C. P. R. Here a palatial hotel accommodates the tourists who flock from every part of the world to take in the grandeur of the scenery of this summer resort. Here Swiss Guides are ready to show parties the best trails and the best views. Splendid roads and trails have been made and a week here during the hot summer months will never be forgotten.

Revelstoke offers opportunities in many lines. Fruit-growing, cattle-raising and poultry-raising, mining and logging, manufacturing and agencies, good water and cheap power.

GOOD PRINTING need not necessarily cost very much more than bad printing. Actually, it never costs as much. And this is for the simple reason that what you pay for, that produces what you have to have, is cheap; and no matter how cheap anything is, it is dear at any price if it doesn't exactly serve the purpose.

Salmon Arm

a city on the Southern, or Salmon, Arm of Shuswap Lake, on the C. P. R., 318 miles east of Vancouver, in Kamloops Provincial Electoral District. It has steamer connections with Kamloops, and is the distributing point for the extensive mining and ranching district up the Shuswap Lake and Seymour River and throughout the highly developed fruit-growing district to the south and east. Salmon Arm is the centre of the finest non-irrigated fruit-growing and general farming district in the province. Between 30,000 and 50,000 boxes of Wealthy, MacIntosh Red, Northern Spy and other apples are shipped annually. The climate here is exceptionally fine, and the location of the city, overlooking the lake, at an altitude of 1,150 feet, is very desirable. There is a government salmon and trout hatchery here; also cold storage plant with 25 carloads capacity. Twenty-five-acre exhibition grounds. The district obtained first prize and gold medal for district fruit exhibit, and second prize for district agricultural exhibit, at New Westminster, 1912; sixteen prizes at Lethbridge Dry-Farming Congress, 1912. Has Anglican, Methodist, Presbyterian and Roman Catholic churches. Local resources: Fruit-growing, dairying, general farming and lumbering. Population: City, 600; district municipality, 1,800.

Every job of printing is worth a little discussion, or a great deal of it. Here, ink is everything; there, the paper; there, again, the engravings or typographical arrangement or style. But it's always the brains that somebody must put into the job, if it is to be a real job, and not an imitation.

Telegraph Pass, at the mouth of the Skeena River, between Kennedy Island and the mainland.

TELEGRAPH POINT

a Dominion Government telegraph repair station on the Skeena River, 40 miles from Prince Rupert, in Prince Rupert Provincial Electoral District. Quinesta is nearest station on G. T. P. Ry., distant 4 miles. Only residents are operator and one lineman.

Telegraph Trail, constructed between 1864-1868, by a subsidiary company of the Western Union Telegraph Company with the object of providing a telegraph line to Europe, before the Atlantic cables were found possible. It started from San Francisco and was to run through British Columbia, Yukon and Alaska to Behring Sea. The line entered British Columbia south of Sumas and followed the Cariboo Road to Quesnel, then went northwest to Fraser and Francais Lakes and by Bulkley Valley to Hazelton, thence northwest to Telegraph Creek. Here the project was abandoned, as the Atlantic cables had been successfully laid. In 1870 it was purchased by the Dominion Government and is now a part of the Dawson telegraph line. North of Quesnel, this trail is the main thoroughfare through the interior.

Telkwa

a post office and settlement at junction of the Telkwa and Bulkley Rivers, and on the G. T. P. Ry., 60 miles southeast of Hazelton, in Omineca Provincial Electoral District. TRAIL, B. C.

Has a Live Weekly

"The Trail News"

Established in 1895 Eight to Ten Pages Each Issue

The Trail News is the only paper issued in British Columbia today that is still published in the building in which it was started and which was erected especially for it.

Nevertheless, it has up-to-date equipment in every way, and stands in the front rank among the weeklies of the province.

Trail has about 4,000 population.
Trail has a pay-roll of about $150,000 monthly.
Trail News prints 1,000 copies weekly, and has over 3,000 readers.

Our people have the means to purchase. Tell your advertising man—he'll do the rest if you wish to get in touch with a live community with a meritorious proposition.
